

evolutionists and a life beyond have no charm for them, but the mass of mankind will continue to worship and adore the One who came in the promise of the Savior that He has gone to prepare a place for them.

"Christ has made of death a narrow, starlit strip between the companionship of yesterday and the reunion of tomorrow; evolution strikes out the stars and deepens the gloom that enshrouds that tomb."

The "indictments" are the charges brought against evolution.

First—"That it disputes the truth of the Bible account of man's creation and shakes faith in the Bible account of God's redemption."

Second—"That evolution discounts every vital truth in the Bible."

POSTHUMOUS TALK HITS RELIGION FOE

Bible and its natural, if not inevitable tendency is to lead those who really accept it, first to agnosticism and then to atheism. It is in proof of this indictment that Charles Darwin is called as the first witness, and the history of his spiritual life is cited, quoting extensively from Darwin's writings and those of his son, Francis Darwin.

"Crime of Evolutionists." "Do these evolutionists stop to think of the crime they commit when they take faith out of the hearts of men and women and lead them out into the starless night?" Bryan asked, in commenting on the life of Darwin.

Then, in support of the same indictment, he launched into a long discussion of the Loeb-Leopold case, in which Clarence Darrow was the attorney for the accused murderers of "Bobby" Franks. He quoted at length from Darrow's speech in the defense of Loeb and Leopold, wherein Darrow argued that Leopold was the victim of the philosophy of Nietzsche, made available to him when he was yet too young to guard against its distinguished teachings "of the superman," who is above the law.

He became more bitter when he took up the defense of Loeb, as the victim of some hereditary taint handed down "by some remote ancestor."

Quintessence of Evolution. "This is the quintessence of evolution distilled for us by one who follows that doctrine to its logical conclusion," the speech reads. "Analyze the dogma of darkness and death. Evolutionists say that back in the twilight of life a beast planted a murderous seed, and that the impulse that originated in that seed throbs forever in the blood of the brute's descendants. Inspiring killings are not responsible because coerced by a fate fixed by the laws of heredity. It is an insult to reason and shocks the hearer. That doctrine is as deadly as leprosy."

Third—Evolution, diverts the attention from pressing problems of great importance to trifling speculation. While one evolutionist is trying to imagine what happened in the past, another is trying to pry open the door of the distant future. One recently grew eloquent over ancient worms and another predicted that 75,000 years hence everyone will be bald and toothless.

But those who endeavor to cloth our remote ancestors with hair, and those whose endeavor is to remove the hair from the heads of our remote descendants, ignore the present with its imperative demands.

Science of Living. "The science of how to live" is the most important of all sciences. Christians desire that their children shall be taught all the sciences, but they do not want them to lose sight of the "Rock of Ages" while they study the ages of rock.

Fourth—Evolution, by paralyzing the hope of form, discourages those who labor for the improvement of man's condition. Evolution chills that enthusiasm by substituting eons for years. It obscures all beginnings in the mists of the endless ages. Evolution, disputing the miracles and ignoring the spiritual in life, has no place for the regeneration of the individual.

"It is because Christians believe in individual regeneration and in the regeneration of society through the regeneration of individuals that pray, 'Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven.'"

Mockery of Lord's Prayer. Evolution makes a mockery of the Lord's Prayer. To interpret the words to mean that improvement desired must come slowly through unfolding ages—a process with which each generation could have time to do—is to defeat the heart's sick.

Fifth—Evolution, "if taken seriously and made the basis of a philosophy of life, would eliminate love and carry man back to a struggle of tooth and claw." In support of this, he quotes Darwin's discussion of "survival of the fittest" among animals, and declares that such a struggle as there described—whereby the weak are eliminated by the power of the strong—would be the result of "the barbarous sentiment that runs through evolution."

"All the sympathetic activities of civilized society are condemned because they enable the weak members to propagate their kind," reads the attack upon Darwin's statement. "Then he drags mankind down to the level of the brute and compares the freedom given to man unfavorably with the restraint that we put on barnyard beasts."

Then the speech concludes with a likening of the Scopes case to trial of Christ before Pilate. "It is again the choice between God and Baal," read the manuscript in lines from which the spirit of Bryan, the crusader, fairly flamed. "It is a renewal of the issue in Pilate's court. In that historic trial—the greatest in history—force, impersonated by Pilate, occupied the throne. The defendant was the Roman government, mistress of the world, and behind the Roman government were legions of Rome.

"Before Pilate stood Christ, the Apostle of Love."

Triumph of Force.

Force triumphed. They nailed Him to the cross and those who stood around mocked and jeered and said, 'He is dead.'

"But from that day the power of Caesar waned and the power of Christ increased. After a few centuries, the Roman government was gone and its legions forgotten, while the crucified and risen Lord became the greatest fact in history."

"Again force and love met face to face and the question, 'What shall I do with Jesus?' must be answered. A bloody, brutal doctrine—evolution—demands, as the rabble did 1900 years ago—that He be crucified."

"That cannot be the answer of this jury representing a Christian state and sworn to uphold the laws of today. Your answer will be heard throughout the world; it is eagerly awaited by a praying multitude. If the law is nullified there will be rejoicing wherever God is repudiated, the Saviour scoffed and the Bible ridiculed. Every unbeliever of every kind and degree will be happy."

"If, on the other hand, the law is upheld and the religion of the schoolchildren is protected, millions of Christians will call you blessed."

Tustin Miss Becomes Bride of Los Angeles Man

Miss Peggy Carson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Carson, Tustin, was united in marriage to Leo Holland, Los Angeles, Saturday at high noon in the Congregational church in Santa Ana, with Rev. P. F. Schrock officiating.

The young couple were unattended, but were accompanied by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Carson, and sister, Miss Berle Carson, and brother, Elton Carson.

The bride was lovely in a white georgette gown worn with a large picture hat.

Following the ceremony, a wedding luncheon and reception was held at the bride's parents' home in Tustin. Large bouquets of dahlias were arranged artistically in the living rooms and on the luncheon table.

The bride has been the incentive for many pre-nuptial affairs. On Wednesday last, Mrs. Neil Parsons was hostess to an attractive kitchen shower in her honor, and several other friends and relatives have entertained for her.

Mrs. Holland attended the Tustin schools and for a short while was employed in the telephone office in Tustin.

Following a short honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Holland will make their home in Los Angeles. Those who attended the wedding luncheon and reception are as follows: Mr. and Mrs. L. Carson and family, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Carson and family, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Carson, Miss Merle Carson and Elton Carson, Tustin, and Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Vance, Santa Ana, and Mrs. A. Woods and daughter, Los Angeles.

WOLD CUT PLANT FROM SEWER LINE

declared that justice to the company demanded at least notice of 30 days before actual discontinuance of the service.

Knox contended that it was costing the joint owners of the sewer line from $100 to $200 a day every day the waste of the company was permitted to flow through the lines, and pointed out that if the company had to suspend operations for 30 days, or until it has its proposed reclaiming plant ready for operation, it probably would lose no more money than had the sewer owners by permitting the waste to be pumped into the line.

Discussions were heard on the point as to whether the state board of health could give assurance that if the outfall was extended further into the ocean, as ordered, pollution of ocean water and the beaches would be permanently eliminated. It was conceded that no such assurance could be given. J. W. Tubbs, mayor of Santa Ana and chairman of the joint sewer board, pointing out that the state board was concerned with health and that in case pollution should follow extension the board very likely would again direct further extension.

Suggestion was made that investigation should be made as to possible relief of the situation by substitution of a septicizing plant for the ordered extension of the outfall to 40 feet of water at low tide.

The committee, authorized by the joint boards, was instructed to attend the meeting in San Francisco and to go into every detail of the situation, and, if possible, to effect a compromise with the state health board that will make it possible to avoid, at this time, expenditure of the large amount of money necessary to carry out the present order of the state body.

It was suggested as a possibility that after the chemical plant waste is removed from the line conditions at the ocean end of the sewer would not be as objectionable as they are now, and belief was expressed that in event changed conditions occur the health body would modify its order.

The following were present at the meeting:

G. J. Stöck, L. E. Miller, A. W. Franzen, W. D. Grafton, R. W. Price, Anaheim; H. H. Crook, W. J. Carmichael, W. C. Record, Fullerton.

DUST? AIN'T SUCH

THING THESE DAYS

YOSEMITE, Calif., July 28.—"Dust?" said "Uncle" John Macready to a motorist who complained to him about the conditions of the roads into the valley. "Why, friend, there ain't no dust now—adays."

"Women didn't need to powder their noses in the days when horses pulled the stage into here," said "Uncle" John. "Old Mother Earth provided a coat that the sun couldn't cut through."

"Yes, sir, times has changed," he said. "The trouble with people now is that they expect a paved boulevard cut through virgin forests. The city fellows that have never been off the paved highways are the ones that kick now."

Police News

Two "peeping Toms," observed in two different locations in Santa Ana last night, escaped the clutches of the law by disappearing before officers could reach the scenes.

One was seen in the neighborhood of Seventh and Lacy streets, and the other at Fifth and Garfield streets. A description of one of the men is in the hands of the police.

Gerald Robinson, Santa Ana, was arrested last night by Sid Smithwick, assistant chief of police, and is being held on a charge of suspicion of grand larceny, for Long Beach police. His arrest is in connection with an alleged stolen automobile, it was stated by police here.

Charged with being drunk, Steve Hatfield, 43, Santa Ana, was arrested last night by Officers Adams and Mohr. He was lodged in jail or the night.

The Well-Dressed Man

By BEAUNASH

Correct Clothes To Meet The Obligation Of Every Occasion

HALF ROBES FOR BATH OR BEACH

Like flirtation, fashion reminds one of a circulating library in which one never asks twice for the same book. The attraction of each is a constant change of subject. Most men, falling into the log-trot of mechanical motion, dress one way every day. They derive themselves of the freshness and fascination of trying different effects; of a new frame for the old face or figure. To possess a correct and complete wardrobe, occasionally spiced with new styles, is to get the most in satisfaction and self-approbation out of dress. Put on different clothes and, sub-consciously, you feel like a different man, for in the long run, there is nobody as tiresome to yourself as yourself. The truth of this is easily demonstrated by assuming evening dress. What man, in snowy linen and inkly worsted, does not feel as though he had been re-energized and transformed when he fronts his reflection in the looking glass?

Plan your wardrobe carefully and supervise it critically. Note what things need replacement week by week, and replace them at once, irrespective of whether it is the start of the season, the height of the season or the end of the season. Buy by your requirements, and not by the calendar. It is always preferable to acquire many articles at the same time, so that they will begin their service together and continue it together. Otherwise, one looks new and the other old; one looks spic-and-span and the other seedy.

First, bath, beach or locker robes, as they are variously termed, were full-length; then they were three-quarter length. Now, they have been shortened to half-length for those youngsters who like the jaunty appearance of the abbreviated garment. One of these is shown here. It extends to slightly above the knee and is worn, as a beach robe, with one's swimming suit; as a bath robe, with one's pajamas. For beach use, it helps to fend off sunburn and, besides, is colorful and picturesque.

Creeps, cotton, flannels, linens, Terry cloths and many more are used for the beach robe. Blazer stripes, borrowed from the cricket jacket of the Englishman, are a new and striking design executed in club, college, racing and regimental colors. Wearing a beach robe was once regarded as a mer affectation, but it has risen to the dignity of both a decoration and a protection, the latter necessary when one is exposed to grueling sun and its consequences.

Attorney Walter R. French,

KLAN ISSUE IS INJECTED INTO HARBISON CASE

Selection of a jury to try M. L. Harbison, Anaheim livery stable man, was in progress today before Judge R. Y. Williams, of the second division of superior court. Harbison is being tried on a perjury charge, growing out of his unsuccessful effort to have the anti-Klan Anaheim city trustees ousted on the ground that they hired Charles D. Nichols as city marshal and ex-officio tax collector when they knew Nichols had been convicted of a felony while a county sheriff in New York.

Harbison's charge fell flat when it was tried before Judge Williams and the charges of perjury, a felony, and criminal libel, a misdemeanor, were filed against him as the result.

District Attorney A. P. Nelson and Chief Deputy District Attorney C. N. Mozley are representing the state. Associated with William P. Webb Jr., for the defense, were E. Stanley Price and George Halverson, Los Angeles attorneys.

The following named were the first 12 jurors drawn:

D. Jones, rancher, Santa Ana; Mrs. Carrie Drake, housewife, Yorba Linda; T. C. Cordes, rancher, Anaheim; W. B. Gibson, rancher, Santa Ana; Ida M. Stearnes, housewife, Costa Mesa; William Abplanalp, rancher, Anaheim; A. J. Beisel, retired, Santa Ana; G. T. Gibson, laborer, Santa Ana; J. L. Kobler, rancher, Orange; Mary E. Palmer, housewife, Olive; Mrs. Mary T. Morey, housewife, Orange; S. M. Dungan, rancher, Santa Ana.

All the jurors were tentatively accepted by the defense, although it was expected that peremptory challenges would be frequently used before the box is filled and accepted. The prosecutors began the examination of the jurors shortly before noon.

The Ku Klux Klan was injected into the case almost at its outset. Attorney Price, questioning the jurors for the defense asked each of them concerning Klan affiliations, if membership in the Klan would sway them against the defendant, or, if it was proven that Harbison's unsuccessful effort to have the council ousted had been inspired by the Klan, whether that would prejudice them against the defendant. None of the jurors admitted open prejudice for the Klan.

Valuable Copper Found In Oregon

BAKER, Ore., July 23.—Prospectors that a new copper mining region, comparable with that around Butte, Mont., will be developed around this city are favorable, according to mining engineers and geologists. They have been studying and prospecting in a belt of copper ore some 60 miles long and varying in width from a quarter mile to a half mile. Some general development work on the Mother Lode, Goose Creek and Clover Creek outcroppings has been done recently. The existence of this belt has been known or hinted at for at least 20 years, since it was first referred to by Waldemar Lindgren, who first made the original survey for the United States geological survey. Lindgren has just completed a thorough survey of some of the outcroppings, and his report, soon to be made public, is understood to verify the story that rich minerals are present. It is said that the belt carries gold and silver values more than sufficient to pay the cost of taking out the copper.

BOY SCOUT CORNER

BURRO'S DEATH IS GRIEVED BY ROKILI SCOUTS

The County Boy Scout headquarters received a report from Camp ROKILI yesterday to the effect that the first death occurring in the camp since its establishment had taken place. The youngest member of the camp named "Brownie," acquired lockjaw and before assistance could be given he was dead. The death of a popular member cast a gloom over the entire camp. Early Monday morning the entire personnel formed in a big funeral procession, and bore "Brownie" to his last resting place.

"Brownie" has had several very thrilling experiences and it was thought that possibly he had in some way or other received an internal injury, but competent camp physicians upon dissecting him, could find no such injury. The Scouts came to the conclusion that probably he just died of laziness, not having enough energy to eat.

But the scouts believe that some day "Brownie" would have grown into a fine pack burro and were grieved that his career should have been cut short just at the time when he was learning that a pack saddle couldn't be scraped off.

SAIL FOR HONOLULU
The president of the Orange county council, G. W. Finch, of Fullerton, sailed today from San Francisco for Honolulu, where he will spend the next five weeks, returning shortly after September 1. Finch is accompanied by Mrs. Finch and their son, Robert, who is an Eagle scout. They expect, in addition to seeing all of the attractions of the Hawaiian islands, to visit scout centers and camps on the islands.

ON OVERNIGHT OUTING
Seven scouts from Santa Ana Troop No. 3, last Saturday enjoyed an overnight outing at the new county camping grounds above Orange county park. Scoutmaster W. F. Palmer was in charge.

EXPECT MANY WILL ATTEND DUCK DINNER

Responses to invitations indicate that 75 prominent men and women of Orange county will be present, tomorrow night, at the complimentary wild mallard duck dinner to be given by officials of the Southern Seas club at the clubhouse in Balboa, according to a statement made today by George Neill, secretary of the club.

The secretary directed attention to the fact that the dinner will be served at 7 o'clock tomorrow night and not on Thursday night, as was erroneously announced a few days ago.

Pointing out that one of the purposes of the club is to promote Balboa as a year-round resort, Neill said that the dinner guests would be presented with an outline of the club plans by men familiar with the details. In addition to the dinner program, the guests will be entertained after dinner by a searchlight boat ride over the bay, and later by a musical program in the clubhouse.

"The Southern Seas club will tie in with all plans for developing Orange County Harbor, and we expect to be supported by a membership representing some of the most prominent and influential residents of Orange, San Bernardino, Riverside and Los Angeles counties," Neill said.

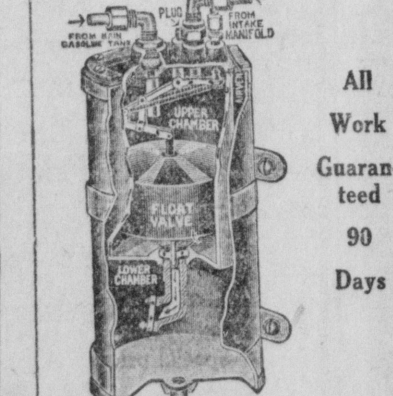

The secretary said that more than 100 members already have been procured and he predicted a rapid increase in the membership, once an active campaign is launched to add the names of residents of the four counties.

COUNCIL LETS SANTA CLARA PAVING WORK

The Santa Ana city council, in a brief session last night, prior to a joint meeting of councils and trustees of sanitary districts identified with the joint outfall sewer, awarded to Ralph E. Welch, the contract for paving West Santa Clara avenue from Main street to Greenleaf street. The contract price is in excess of $14,000. Assurance was given that the contractor would start work on the street without delay, and that the job would be rushed to completion.

An appropriation of $500 was made from the advertising fund for support of the Orange County fair. The appropriation was made at request of A. M. Stanley, fair manager, who said the money would be used in decorating the streets and for advertising the fair.

Application of C. E. Walker, owner of Walker's theater, for permission to hang an electric sign across North Main street, opposite his theater, was filed by Attorney Fred Forgy. Consideration of the request was deferred for one week. It was disclosed that the city had ordered removal of a banner stretched across the street announcing Orpheum vaudeville at his theater.

Consideration of inclusion of an ornamental light on the M. Nissen property, at the corner of Broadway and Santa Clara, in the plans for the lighting system for North Broadway Park boulevard, also was deferred for one week.

A protest was received from property owners opposing location of an oil station at the corner of First and Spurgeon streets. No action was taken because the protest was in advance of the filing of an application for the proposed business enterprise on the corner. It was intimated that a request will be made later for permission to establish a station on the corner.

VOLCK

—kills citrus insect pests in all stages of development

The remarkable results achieved by the use of VOLCK are largely the result of the fact that VOLCK not only kills scale and most other citrus insect pests but kills them in all stages of development from the egg to the adult.

Most insect pests pass thru various stages in which they are practically immune to other control methods and spray materials—but there are no stages where they are immune to VOLCK. Every scale that is touched by VOLCK dies.

Because of its exceptional effectiveness one application usually ends the pest problem for the year. Once over your trees and you can give your time to other things.

VOLCK is not only sure, but it's safe. It does not burn or injure either fruit or foliage. No pitting, no scarring, no wind damage. When your trees are sprayed with VOLCK you get clean fancy fruit and the top price.

AILMENTS OF YOUNG GIRLS

Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound
School Teacher's Experience

Evanston, Wyoming.—"A few years ago I had troubles every month such as girls often have, and would suffer awfully every time. I was teaching school and it made it hard for me as I had to go to bed for two or three days. One day my mother suggested that I take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did, and it did wonders for me. In the course of a year I married and after my first baby was born I got up too soon and it caused a displacement. This troubled me so that I could hardly walk or do my housework. I knew what the Vegetable Compound did for me before so I took it again. It strengthened me and now I have five little kiddies. The eldest is six, the baby is five months old and I have twin boys three years old and a boy of five years. I do all my own housework, washing and ironing, and I never felt better in my life. I owe my health to your wonderful medicine."

News From Mid-year Conference of Federated Clubs

Recognizing the importance and value of the mid-year conference, Dr. Bertola, president of the California Federation of Women's Clubs assembled her official family in San Francisco for a three-day meeting. Questions concerning the policies of the Federation were fully discussed, and the plan to reorganize the board to conform with that of the General Federation was adopted, consequently eight new members were added to the board. The departments are divided into divisions, each in charge of a competent chairman. Under this system it is hoped to correlate the work of the divisions and thus strengthen their power and influence.

The most radical change in the departmental work is in that of Press and Publicity. The new chief is Mrs. William E. Hubbard, a competent and experienced manager of publicity, having served in the food campaign in Washington, 1917-18, as publicity chairman for Mr. Herbert Hoover, and later as secretary of the California Thrift campaign in 1919.

Under her supervision the Federation News, the official organ of the Federation is to be reorganized and made self-supporting by carrying advertisements, thus enabling the paper to be placed in the hands of every member of the various clubs comprising the Federation.

Mrs. Frank A. Gibson, of Los Angeles, was appointed historian, and given a free rein, ample time and a generous budget to complete the history of the Federation which has been named, "Trailing the California Federation of Women's Clubs for Twenty-five Years." In this work, Mrs. Gibson is most ably assisted by Mrs. E. B. Latham, past press chairman for Southern California.

The fund for the Memorial Redwood Grove having reached the $40,000 mark the campaign for money will cease, but clubs are urged to complete their quotas and these and other gifts will be added to the general fund which remains in the possession of the Federation till arrangements for the purchase of the grove in Dyer-ville Flat are completed.

The board voted to join The Western Federation of Women's Clubs, an organization composed of states in the western part of the country the following being eligible to membership: Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, Washington, Wyoming and Alaska.

Miss Grace Storrer, of Los Angeles, chairman of division of history and landmarks, presented the following resolution, which was adopted:

Owing to the great calamity which has recently befallen the Santa Barbara Mission, dear to the hearts of all Californians, and every one interested in that which is picturesque and historical, it is fitting that the clubs use their best endeavors to make possible the restoration. Therefore be it resolved, that the executive board of the California Federation of Women's Clubs assist in some acceptable plan for the restoration of the Santa Barbara Mission.

(Signed) GRACE STORER, Chairman History and Landmarks.

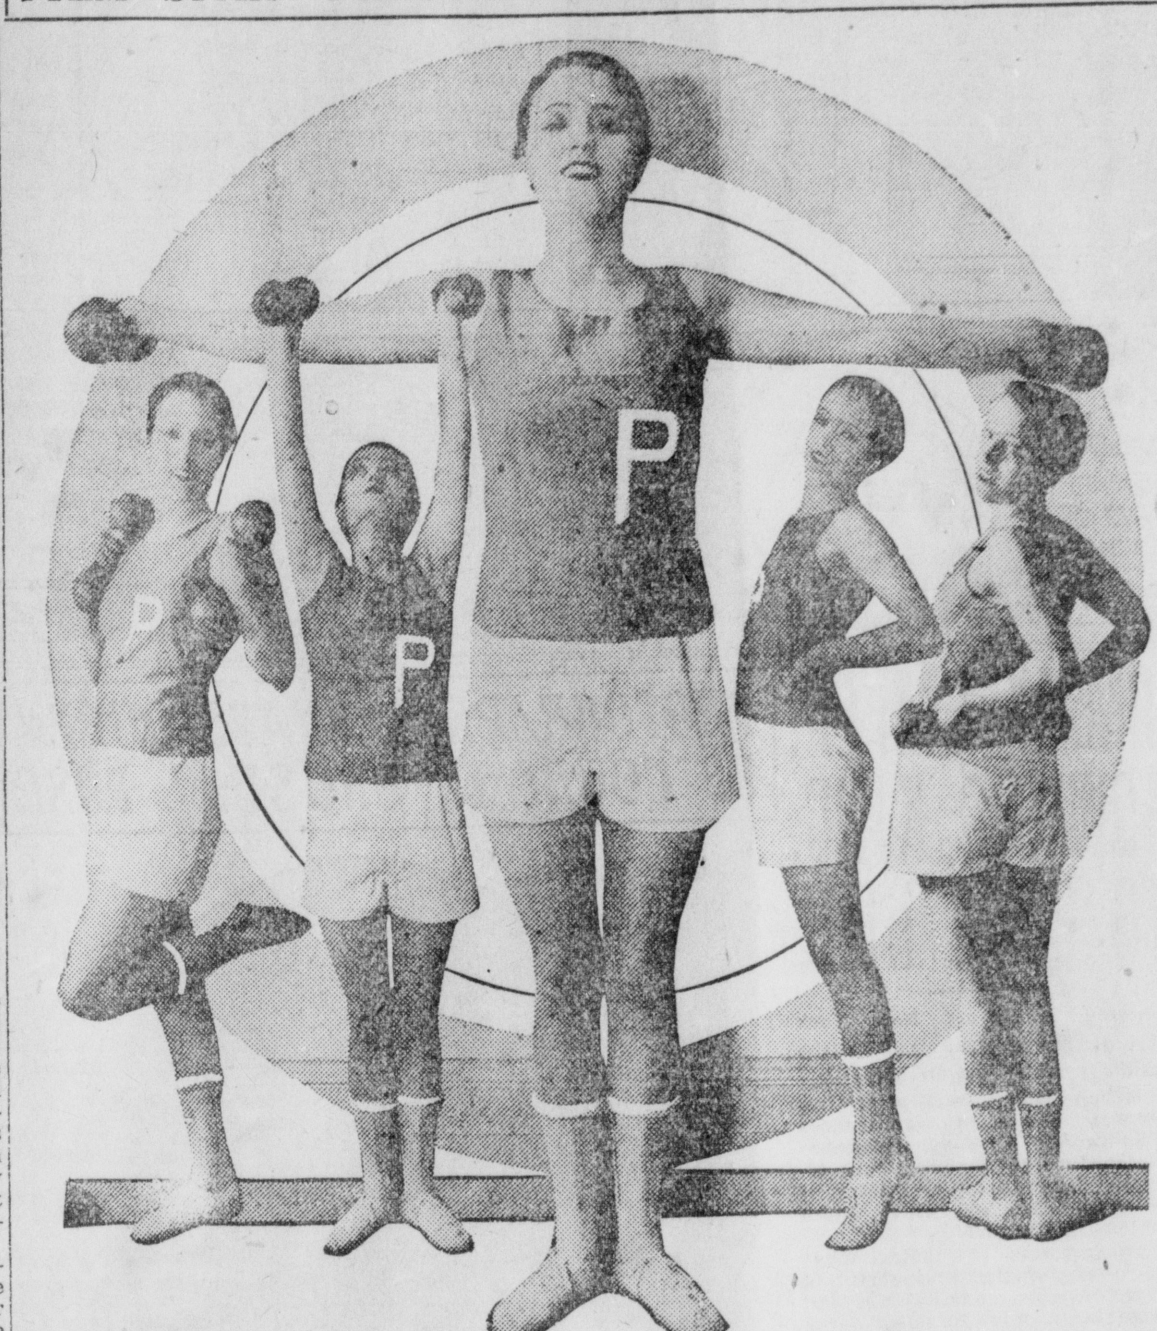

Riverside is to entertain the next state convention, the time has not been set though it will probably be about the first week in May.

FILM STAR PRAISES DUMB-BELLS FOR FIGURE

By HORTENSE SAUNDERS
NEA Service Writer

"I rise in defense of the dumb-bell," announces Pauline Starke, motion picture actress. "To use it as a term of opprobrium is both unjust and unkind. The dumb-bell is woman's best friend and severest reducer."

Pauline has a willowy figure that needs no corset to guide it, and she can wear the most garconne type of frock you can hand her and never betray one too-amplified curve.

The credit for this perfect thirty-four she gives to the dumb-bell.

"When I see fat people comfortably sitting around this hot weather, complaining about the heat and mopping up the perspiration, I can't help wondering why they don't realize that summer is not only the season for romance but for shedding pounds. It is very easy to reduce in the summertime because one's appetite naturally decreases and the heavy, fat-producing foods are not nearly so desirable as the vegetables and fruit that do not contribute to poundage."

"And with the warm weather, you naturally perspire, and by exercise can wear off many taken. And after you have taken a keep your diet down and to keep up the exercises."

"Our bodies, she explains, are full of lazy muscles that have nothing else to do with themselves so they turn into fat."

"Most of these lazy muscles are around the waist and hips," she avers. "Our modern system of living gives them practically nothing to do, unless we invent little trifles."

"And that is where the dumb-bell comes in."

"The way to get the flesh off your waistline and hips is by literally wearing it off. I know of no better way of doing this than by stretching exercises."

"I stand upright and with a heavy dumbbell in each hand I stretch upward as far as I can reach, and hold the position as long as I can. I do this at least 20 times night and morning."

"Then I do the same exercise, only stretch as far as I can to one side, my arms forming right angles with my body. I bring them back firmly against my chest after each time. This is done 20 times night and morning."

"Then I drop the dumbbells for a few moments and stretch thoroughly without them. I go as far backward as I can and

Forest Home Veritable "Little Santa Ana"

Forest Home that delightful mountain resort, has become, to quote the many visitors, a veritable "little Santa Ana," for many Santa Ana residents own cabins in the San Bernardino mountains, and during the summer months make their home there.

The wives and families vacation the entire summer while the men-folks journey mountain-ward for the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. George F. Munro, 1722 Bush street and family, George Jr., Margaret and Jean and Ross Frank, cousin of Mrs. Munro, returned Saturday from an enjoyable three weeks sojourn at Forest Home.

Other Santa Ana folks who are spending their vacations at Forest Home with their families are as follows: Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Sprague and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Runyan, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Decker, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hill, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Trueblood, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Norton, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Smith, Cloyes, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Ford, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Stafford, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Wright, Mrs. Emma Allen, Judge Z. West, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rowland.

then as far forward. When you can feel the pull on the muscles, you know they are doing a little honest work for their living."

"I have a belt arrangement made of leather and wooden balls that I use for massaging my back and thighs. It is equivalent to the heavy massage you get in fashionable reducing salons. It will iron off the flesh that has accumulated, if it becomes a daily habit in your life. You have to be rather careful at first, or in your zeal to get rid of your flesh you will find yourself presenting a fine black and blue surface."

"You can make just what you want to of your figure," is her parting advice. "You can be the master of your fat as well as your fate."

A La Femme Theater In New York City

Now comes the news that Gloria Gould Bishop is about to blossom as a motion-picture theater director and running trio to form she has set her distinguished name to a contract which will give her complete control of the policies of the Embassy theater in New York, which is to be opened during late August by the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer company.

The Embassy under Miss Gould's management is to be an all-woman theater. All the officials, all the employees, even the musicians will be women, according to Miss Gould.

The theater will be opened as an intimate long-run picture playhouse. There are 600 reserved seats and the price of each is $2. The house will open appropriately enough with "The Merry Widow."

Miss Gould's idea is to create a motion-picture theater which will have the intimate quality of the "little theater" of the legitimate stage.

She will, she said, strive to make the Embassy a "smart" motion-picture house and she expects her opening to be a smart society affair.

BOARD MAY HOLD DEMPSEY NOT CHAMP

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

Miller Huggins admits now that he was responsible chiefly for the collapse which caused a former championship team to descend almost to the cellar.

The little manager of the New York Yankees says he realizes now that he should have secured young blood several years ago to be ready to replace his veterans, but that he made the mistake in figuring that his old players would last longer than they did.

Col. Ruppert (owner of the club) and I thought sure last winter that the Yankees would not only last one more season but that they would be strong enough to win the pennant," Huggins said.

He realizes, as all baseball men do, the difficulty of rebuilding a team in a short time. John McGraw has been so successful with the New York Giants because he is always rebuilding and looking to the future. When a veteran slows up, he merely has to reach to the corner of the bench and pluck a youngster to send in.

You can't say that it has been the result of pure luck in McGraw's case. His success has been due to good organization and policy that a good young ball player can always be used even if he is not needed.

Unless promoters have a change of heart, the use of the radio in reporting big fights will be restricted. Tex Rickard will not permit any of his fights to be broadcast. He said it spoils business because thousands of fans prefer to get the account of the fight at home with a party of friends and some beverages. Plenty of choice beverages can be obtained for what it would cost to buy rindside tickets for a party of friends.

The major leagues also have adopted a rule against broadcasting reports of baseball games from the park with the exception of the world's series and they figure that an account of the game on the air will not keep away a world's series crowd because in most cities there are as many fans turned away as there can be admitted to the parks.

Professional sport promoters have been wary from the start about the menace of the radio to future business. They fear that some enterprising person or some inventive genius will find a way of getting a view of the stage without entering the parks. Years ago an idea of radio as it has been perfected today would have been scorned just as the prediction would be ridiculed now that the time will come when you can see through the air.

Zach Wheat, veteran manager of the Brooklyn Robins, and Bill Killifer, the deposed pilot of the Chicago Cubs, are among the prominent baseball men who are of the opinion that the Pittsburgh Pirates will win the National League pennant and that the Washington Senators will repeat in the American league.

They like the Pirates because of their speed, spirit and punch. The Giants, they think, have been slowed up by too much success. Killifer proved himself the fine sport that he always has been on the ball field when he was relieved without notice from the management of the Cubs. He didn't utter any kind of a squawk, and he was the best of success to Rabbit Maranville, his successor.

"I'm going to be a fighting manager," the Rabbit said when he took charge of the club and within forty-eight hours he was in night court after taking part in a free-for-all fight at Times Square. The arresting officer, however, said that the Rabbit had tried to separate one of his players and a taxi driver, who had made a smart crack about them and that he didn't do any swinging until the chauffeur clipped him with one on the whiskers.

The row turned out peacefully, however. The chauffeur refused to appear against the players and they refused to push the case against him.

HELEN, MARY BOTH WIN AT SEABRIGHT

SEABRIGHT, N. J., July 28.—Ranking American women players, headed by Miss Helen Wills, national champion, all scored decisively in the opening round of the Seabright invitation tennis tournament here yesterday. Miss Wills yielded only one game to Mrs. James Symington, Miss Mary K. Browne, of Los Angeles, only one game to Mrs. F. F. Lawrence, and Mrs. Molla Mallory of New York, took a love set from Mrs. Frank Godfrey of Boston, after a fairly close first set, 6-4.

Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, of Los Angeles, national champion 19 years ago, played impressive tennis in defeating Mrs. M. B. Huff, of Philadelphia, 6-0, 6-0.

A purse of $10,000 has been guaranteed for the big open golf tournament to be held in Los Angeles next winter.

Battling Siki Flees Hospital In Pajama Suit

NEW YORK, July 28.—Clad only in pajamas, "Battling" Siki, the Senegalese boxer, impressed a reporter into duty as a cane and hobbled out of the French hospital; hailed a taxicab and disappeared into the maze of traffic before the astonished hospital attendants realized what was going on.

Siki bounded out of bed and made the dash for the taxi when his wife said, "You better wait a while, honey, until you are stronger." Siki had previously asked for his clothes.

The boxer was picked up in the street suffering from stab wounds early Sunday. He said he had received his injuries acting as judge in a free-for-all.

CHAMPION RESUMES TRAINING IN L. A.

LOS ANGELES, July 28.—A new supply of punching bags and other boxing paraphernalia was ordered today by the Manhattan gymnasium to be worn out by Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, during his training for his forthcoming fight.

Dempsey made his first appearance at the gymnasium yesterday and donned the boxing trunks. In fifteen minutes the perspiration was running and Jack's hair was mussed from punching the bag and handling the weights.

To finish the day Dempsey entered the ring against a tall Texan who wanted to box with the champion. Three punches from the champion resulted in three knock-downs and after the last one the Texan had enough.

Yesterday's hero—Jack Quinn, the arthritic Boston castoff, won another game for the Athletics when he beat the Red Sox, 2 to 1.

With a two-run rally in the tenth inning, the Pirates beat the Braves 5 to 3 and increased their lead over the Giants to a game and a half.

Behind the pitching of two southpaws, Benton and May, the Reds copied a double-header from the Cards 4 to 2 and 2 to 0 and went into third place.

Giant Pitcher to Fight Wife's Suit

BROOKLYN, N. Y., July 28.—Hughie McQuillan, star pitcher for the New York Giants, announced in court here today he would contest "in every respect" the separation suit brought by his wife, Nellie.

Announcement of McQuillan's intention to fight the suit caused adjournment of the case until Friday.

JIMMY SMITH, BOWLING KING, TO COME HERE

Jimmy Smith, of New York City, generally recognized as the world's premier match game and personal exhibition bowler, will make two personal exhibition appearances in Santa Ana Tuesday, September 1, according to announcement today by Max Ames, proprietor of the A. and B. alleys where Smith will "do his stuff."

Arrangements are being made for a local singles tournament of 20 games, open to all Santa Ana residents, in order to select a representative to bowl the 10-pin champion. This tournament will begin the first week in August and contests will be held weekly.

Smith will bowl both in the afternoon and evening. He appears in uniform at his afternoon exhibitions and dons a tuxedo for his evening engagements. He will open with exhibitions of trick and fancy shots and then meet the two leading Santa Ana bowlers in five-game matches across four alleys. Bowlers who succeed in outscoring Smith in matches of this kind are presented with a bowling ball, bag, shoes and a gold medal by the Brunswick-Balke-Collender company.

The champion will soon leave Chicago for his first long tour of Western states. His first stop will be at St. Louis, then Kansas City, Omaha, Lincoln, Denver, Colorado Springs, Pueblo, Salt Lake City, San Francisco and Los Angeles where he has secured engagements to keep him in Southern California for 10 days or two weeks.

His Santa Ana appearance will be his first in Southern California. He will appear here even before he rolls at any of the Los Angeles alleys.

Smith is the only bowler ever to win twice the all-events championship at the American Bowling Congress. Even Jimmy Blouin, Smith's chief rival, has captured it but once. Smith was successful at Buffalo in 1911 and at Milwaukee in 1920. At Buffalo he averaged 213 for his nine games in the national championship tournament. This has been surpassed but four times in the history of the A. B. C.

Smith has more than a dozen perfect games of 300 to his credit.

NEW YORK—Tad Jones, head football coach at Yale, will succeed the late Walter Camp on the football rules committee.

NEW YORK—Jim Barnes, British open champion, and Willie Macfarlane, American champion, have agreed to meet in three matches for the unofficial title of world's champion. The matches probably will be played in Philadelphia, Washington and New York.

URBANA, Ill.—Harold ("Red") Urbane has given up ice-carrying in Wheaton to do some scholastic work here. The great football star of the University of Illinois will do a week's work to qualify for a special examination.

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—Billie Cerny, one of the Notre Dame's star football players, is another of Coach Rockne's "Wonder Team," to take up coaching. Cerny reports at Loyola University, Chicago, in September.

FAIRWAY COUNTRY CLUB PURCHASES NEW VILLA PARK ACREAGE FOR GOLF COURSE

The purchase of 180 acres of additional land by the Fairway Land Company from the Bixby company C. E. Stewart, H. N. White and Les Wilson of Anaheim, are considering plans for the further improvement of the property, which now consists of more than 225 acres of excellently located land at Villa Park which golf architects say can be developed into a course of very unusual attractiveness.

The present nine hole course has proven to be so desirable a project that the club believes that an extension of the course should be undertaken and plans looking to that end are now under consideration.

This is one of the few times photographers have been able to snap a picture of Helen Wills, American woman tennis champion, without her tennis racket and eyeshade. EXPECT 15,000 AT BIG VERNON MATCH

LOS ANGELES, July 28.—Boxing fans are expected to pack Jack Doyle's Maier park open air arena tonight to see the Bert Colima-Edie Huffman fight. The arena will hold 15,000 persons.

With betting odds slightly favoring Colima, the Whittier Mexican middleweight, friends of Huffman, who holds the navy light-heavyweight title, today rushed to his aid and odds are expected to be nearly even when the pair enter the ring tonight.

Colima seems to consider that if he beats Huffman he will get another fight with Mickey Walker, world champion welterweight. Walker knocked Colima out in the fifth round of their first fight and Colima has been aching for a return go ever since.

In the other camp, Huffman and his manager, Solly Harris, declare that the fight means everything to them and that they are going to be the ones celebrating after the finish tonight.

CREAMERY MEN CONTINUE DASH TOWARD TITLE

"Tex" Bergman, the tanned mound ace of the Excelsior Creamery company, outpitched Tommy Hitt, the schoolboy wonder of the Wiwanis club, in last night's Class A league indoor argument at Poly field and the Excelsiors continued their merry way toward the championship of the circuit. The score was 5 to 2.

All of the runs in the game were made in the first three frames. Bergman was a little wobbly at the beginning and the Kiwanians made away with what Dempsey has with out inviting the wrath of the dukes.

The commission, however, is rather up against it because Dempsey hasn't a New York license and officially he is not under the jurisdiction of the New York commission.

The situation was to be discussed at today's meeting of the commission.

Promoter Jim Mullen is angling for a match between Young Stripling and Gene Tunney as a Labor Day attraction at the East Chicago fight arena.

A number of star golfers of England and the United States have entered for the Canadian open championship tournament, which is to be held at the Royal Ottawa club during the week of September 14.

It absorbs 16 times its own weight in moisture—5 times that of the ordinary cotton pad!

It is as easily disposed of as a piece of tissue—ending the old embarrassment of disposal.

It is deodorized. And that prevents danger of offense.

It's at every drug store, every department store. You ask for it, without hesitancy, under its trade name of "Kotex."

8 in 10 women of the better classes have adopted it. Doctors urge it. Hygienic authorities employ it.

It will mean much to you . . . will make a great difference in your life. Going on with old ways is a folly.

WEAK SPOTS IN STATE SYSTEM OF ENFORCING TRAFFIC LAWS ARE SUBJECT OF CRITICISM

By A. B. BERRY

Twenty-five per cent of the motorists who are handed tickets by state motorcycle officers for traffic violations pay no attention to the arrest slip, and if they pay for their law-breaking, it is only after they have been re-arrested and brought into court.

A large number of persons who do not appear on their own accord, are never arrested at all, and many warrants for their arrests lie today in an old desk in the state department office, gathering dust and becoming yellow with age.

And why is this so?

A survey of the situation leads one to the conclusion that there are weak spots in the system employed by the state department. Traffic enforcement, it will be remembered, is now under state direction.

Get Little Publicity. Very little has been printed regarding the system of the state motorcycle police, operating in Orange county, as compared with the publicity given the city police and county authorities.

There probably is no one in Orange county who does not know the conditions under which the city police and county officers operate, but there are few who know all of the "ins and outs" of the methods followed by the state department of police.

There is, for one thing, much more so-called "red tape" wound around the state department than in the city and county organizations. "This organization is criticized even more severely sometimes than it should be, because of its so-called system, but mostly because the public does not know the system," it was declared, by one of the officers.

Working directly under supervision of a central office in Sacramento, the department also is in many ways, working under direction of the county board of supervisors. It is the supervisors' duty to recommend the various officers to their positions.

Five Are on Duty. In Orange county, there are, at the present time, five state motorcycle officers, including Capt. Henry S. Warner. These five men are held responsible for the policing of the roads of Orange county, and at the same time maintain an office in the county courthouse, where always at least one is on duty.

How many hours a day do the motorcycle officers work? This is one of the natural questions that arises when one thinks of the scores of miles of roads in Orange county and the work there is to do.

There is no way to tell just how many hours each officer devotes to his duty each day. From questions asked several of the men, it was learned that they work from 12 to 16 hours a day, but at the same time, each is virtually his own boss on the road, and there is no checking system established that will show how many hours are spent in duty by these officers.

The next question that comes to mind is: How does the captain of the squad know where his men are working at any given hour of the day?

There is another question, the answer to which would give rise to criticism, if one wished to find fault with the department.

Four Patrol Districts. Orange county, according to the officers, is divided into four districts. The districts are each controlled by one officer, each week, the men taking turns in the various districts. The districts are known as the Capistrano district, which is the San Diego highway, from Santa Ana to San Juan Capistrano, and the Laguna road, from the San Diego highway to Laguna; Huntington Beach district, composed of the Coast highway from Seal Beach to Huntington Beach, the Huntington Beach boulevard, from Santa Ana to the beach city, roads leading into Los Alamitos, and the road to the beach from Santa Ana, known as West Seventeenth street; the Buena Park district, which is composed of the Lincoln highway, in Orange county, Grand avenue, out of Anaheim, Orangeflower road, the state highway, north of Santa Ana, and the Placentia road; which is composed of the Orange County park road, Villa Park roads, roads leading into Olive and the roads leading into the Santa Ana canyon.

Each of these districts is patrolled by one officer each day in the week. To know where this officer is at any given time of the day, is impossible, the officers say, because he may be in one section of his district or another. There is no system which compels him to be on any one of the given roads at any specific time. The captain of the squad can judge from the officer's daily report whether he is attending to his job. The captain, too, journeys around and knows what his men are doing.

When a state police officer makes an arrest on the highway, the ticket he writes out is made in triplicate. The original is given to the erring motorist, the second sheet is sent to the office of the district attorney, for the drawing up of a complaint, and the third sheet is mailed to the Sacramento office.

Could Compare Slips. At the end of each month, the Sacramento slip is supposed to be compared with the slip that has gone to the office of the district attorney (and which by this time should be in the justice court along with the complaint), in order to determine what action has been taken on each specific arrest. The district attorney issues a complaint for every slip actually turned into his office.

After the district attorney receives the slip, he draws up a complaint against the motorist, which complaint goes to the justice of the township in which the arrest is made. The justice holds the complaint until the arrested person appears in court with the original ticket, given him at the time of his arrest.

Should a violator fail to appear in court, the justice is then expected to issue a warrant for his arrest, and this warrant is turned over to the sheriff's office for service.

One Weak Point. Here is a weak point in the motor traffic enforcement system:

Justices in various townships are required, according to a state law, to send their reports on motor law violations to the state department each month, so that a check can be made with the arrest slips that are sent in each week by the officers. Justice Kenneth E. Morrison, of Santa Ana township, who was asked about this part of the system, declared that he did not send in reports.

"I was not done before I came here, and I haven't any more time to do it than did my predecessor. I don't consider the instructions a legal requirement," he said.

Asked if he knew that, according to law, failure to comply with this section of the state law was based on sufficient grounds for removal from office, Morrison said that he knew it, but intimated that he would not make reports regarding motor law cases to the state department. He doesn't consider it his duty to do so.

What About Other Judges? He said that he did not know whether other justices in the county complied with this section or not, but was rather under the impression that they did not.

All warrants that are turned over to the sheriff's office are served, according to a statement made today by Sam Jernigan, sheriff. "Most of the warrants we receive from the justice court for motor violations are for persons living in Los Angeles county," he said. "I mail the warrants to Los Angeles and they are served there," he declared.

Jernigan asserted, however, that during the last two months he had received no warrants from the justice office for service. Justice Kenneth Morrison said that, because of a situation arising in his office, no warrants had been sent to the sheriff's office for the last 60 days, but that it was his rule to turn the warrants over to the sheriff on the first of each month. He stated further that there would be approximately sixty warrants turned over to the sheriff's office on August 1, for service.

Morrison said that he was sure all warrants did not reach the hands of the sheriff and declared he was under the opinion that the sheriff returned them to the office of the state motor department, for service in bulk. When informed that this was not true, Morrison remarked that he did not know where the state department got the warrants, but that he knew they had many of them.

Sheriff Ready to Act. Sheriff Jernigan said that he was ready at all times to serve all warrants brought to him, and that he did not turn warrants back to the state department for service. If a state officer asked for a warrant it would be given him, he said, for service, just as it would be given to any other authorized officer who said he could serve a warrant.

There has been some talk over the state lately to the effect that persons were being released after being arrested, without ever coming into court. With the present system, this is simple enough.

Suppose, if you will, that after an arrest is made, an attempt is made to "fix it," and the motorist is told that all he has to do is "fix it" for the favored motorist. The officer who is on the "fixing" merely fails to turn in his arrest slip, and, although it is numbered, there is no checking system established, and Sacramento or the justice office or any other department is none the wiser.

Members of the state police said today that it had been their custom to serve their own warrants, but that many of them were out of Orange county, and as there was generally some personal expense attached to running down violators who do not appear, they did not always do it, because there was nothing in the "system" that paid them expenses to make such arrest.

No Way to Check Officer. There is no way to check up on an officer who makes an arrest and then turns his man loose. The justices do not check with Sacramento and Sacramento has made no effort of late to force the justices to comply with the state law, and co-operate with them in that regard.

The checking system is poor or not followed out; if, after an ar-

African Planter Gets Stiff Fine For Lashing Men

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, July 23.—A case reminiscent of the slave days was uncovered on the Zululand sugar plantation of Felix W. König Kramer, of Gingindlovu, who was found guilty of ill treating native employees. The natives were dressed in sackcloth and kept under guard, and if one attempted to escape he was stripped and flogged until unconscious, and left lying in the cane fields until sundown, when he was removed on a hand cart to the barracks. There he was locked up for 14 days.

The wives, when they finished their work, were locked up until sunrise, sleeping close together. One died one night. The natives did not dare to raise an alarm, but had to sleep alongside the corpse.

In some cases the natives were not paid for 10 months. The workers were forced to buy second-hand suits from their employer for about $40 apiece. The planter was fined $6500, on 35 counts, and ordered to pay $1200 in wages due the natives.

rest, a motorcycle officer decides to stop prosecution, all the officer has to do is to forget that he gave the man a ticket. If the report has already gone to the district attorney's office, and a warrant has been issued, then the arrested man must take his chances on whether the sheriff's office will find him or not. In many cases the defendant is not found. Pictitious names, wrong addresses and mistakes in auto numbers all contribute to failure to locate the violator.

And yet there is a record of every arrest made and filed in Sacramento. Each officer reports on a state form the number of cars he has stopped during the day and the number of arrests that were made. These are turned in to the captain of the squad, and at the end of each week, he mails them to the state department.

Totals Are Reported. This report contains mere figures, however, and there is no way to check a specific case against figures.

Although records are kept of each case that is disposed of, what of the cases that are not disposed of? This seems to be another weak place in the system.

Justices in the various townships keep a complete record of the number of cases that come into their court and this record is available at all times, but it deals only with the violators who voluntarily come into court and the few who are sent for and are brought in.

On top of that, there is no state record kept of the disposition of cases, it was declared.

That the state motorcycle department in Orange county is a paying organization is indicated. Fines collected in justice court bear this out, in spite of the statement made by Morrison that 25 per cent of the violators do not show up at the time they are summoned.

Percentage Is Cut. Several months ago, he said, out of every 100 persons arrested, only 50 came to court without having to be sent for. This gradually has been cut down to 25 per cent, and was cut because several violators, who refused to make their appearance, were sent for, and given jail sentences. The number still is high, however.

Salaries of the five Orange county state police at the present time, total $150 a month. This is paid by the state. All fines collected, in Orange county for motor law violations go to the county, together with 50 per cent of all registration fees.

During the last 30 days, 80 persons have been fined for motor law violations in Justice Morrison's court alone, and a total amount of $1753.50 has been collected in fines. There are eight other justice courts in Orange county that handle state motor law cases.

Is Light Period. And this is the lightest 30-day period in the last six months, it was shown on the records.

Following are the total amounts of fines collected in the Santa Ana justice court alone from erring motorists, during the last six months, most of the credit for these fines going to the state police:

January, $3258; February, $2500; March, $2420; April, $3554; May, $2382; June, $2611.50.

It is true that all these fines did not come from persons arrested by the state police. Deputy sheriffs, together with city police in Santa Ana, contributed their quotas of offenders, but the majority of the cases are the result of the work of the state department.

Drop Effort to Clamp Ice Law On Outside Men

NEWPORT BEACH, July 28.—No appeal of the court ruling against the ice tax levied here will be considered, it was announced at the meeting of the city board of trustees last night.

In a wide sweep, the county superior court decision in the case of Charles Hazard, Huntington Beach ice man, made unenforceable the discriminatory license tax required at Newport Beach.

The enactment established a "policy of protective tariff discriminating in favor of persons manufacturing ice in the city," City Attorney Clyde Bishop told the city council.

A written statement from Bishop advised the city to drop the matter after instructing the police department and the license bureau not to enforce the ordinance.

FOUR CANDIDATES SEEK P. O. PLACE

FULLERTON, July 28.—Four candidates have applied for appointment as postmaster of Fullerton, it was announced here today, including Mrs. Anna Irwin, wife of the former postmaster, W. M. Irwin, who passed away some time ago, Harry Williams, John B. Horner and C. C. Clark.

Mrs. Irwin was appointed acting postmaster some weeks ago, and has been endorsed by the republican central committee for the permanent position. She has had a great deal of experience in both clerical and executive work, and many friends here are endorsing her for the position.

Superintendent Of Water Works At Beach Quits

NEWPORT BEACH, July 28.—The resignation of John McMillan, water superintendent of Newport Beach, was accepted by the city board of trustees meeting last night.

McMillan was transferred at his request to assume charge of the municipal water plant. The change is to go into effect immediately.

The office of water superintendent was filled by the appointment of Freeman A. Daley to the vacancy. In applying for the position, Daley said that he would continue the projected work of the department and give every possible service to the city.

REOPENING OF TRAFFIC CASE IS EXPECTED

NEWPORT BEACH, July 28.—With members of the city council invited to be present, a reopening of the charge that traffic was diverted from Balboa on the day of the Bathing Girls' parade is expected to break out at the meeting of the Balboa Chamber of Commerce tonight.

An invitation to attend the meeting from George Neill, secretary of the Balboa Chamber of Commerce, was accepted last night by the councilmen.

The meeting is to be held in the office of the chamber of commerce at 8 o'clock. It is expected that the grievance of the Balboa citizens will be brought out and their stand explained.

In the last meeting the city council dismissed the petition of Balboa citizens charging negligence of the police department in handling traffic on the day of the bathing review. Evidence advanced was declared to be insufficient.

BOAT OWNERS WHOSE CRAFT LOOTED BY ALHAMBRA YOUTH REFUSE TO PROSECUTE HIM

NEWPORT BEACH, July 28.—By a series of thefts of equipment from craft along the bay front, a 17-year-old Alhambra youth fitted out his boat but then the authorities interfered.

His arrest was made and damaging evidence was discovered. He had even "borrowed" a car, registered under the name of E. W. Humphrey of Long Beach, to make his little vacation trip here.

So when he faced City Recorder Andrew Wilson yesterday things were dark. Leniency, however, was advocated by the rifled boat owners who refused to complain against him and the lad was released to the Los Angeles officers to answer for the car theft.

During his activities here, he took equipment from numbers of boats to fix up his craft in seaworthy condition.

He had built the boat, he said, at his home in Alhambra and brought it to the beach here for water sports. When he saw how other craft were fitted with spars, oars and sails he proceeded to fit appropriate things to fit out his boat similar to theirs.

One of the owners recognized some of his missing property on the youth's boat and arrest followed. The whole story was learned and the victimized owners repented because of the boy's age. With half his troubles gone, the boy is hoping fortune is still with him when he faces the Los Angeles authorities.

Union Oil Co. To Deliver Gas To Motor Boats

NEWPORT BEACH, July 28.—Even on the high seas the gas station is present to give service to motor boat customers.

The Newport bay craft receive their gas supply from the Union Oil company which is to make new improvements for their service. Permission was given the company to operate a supply launch at the city council meeting last night.

It is proposed to sink tanks along the bulkhead on the bay front near the ferry landing. Gas from these will be taken by the launch to boats in the bay. The supply float, now used, which is anchored in the bay, will be removed.

BOND ELECTION DELAY LOOMING AT BEACH CITY

NEWPORT BEACH, July 28.—Whether Newport Beach should hold a $225,000 water bond election became a muddled issue when the city board of trustees met last night in special session to consider the election.

Due to special problems, definite action was postponed. The board decided to meet in special session on Thursday to clear the issues. Steps are expected to be taken on the election at the regular meeting next Monday.

When the discussion arose at the meeting last night, opposition developed to carrying out the projected plans advanced by Paul Kressly, city engineer. Lew Wallace, city treasurer, said that the election would fail.

"If we wait until after the harbor bonds are voted, we can pass on any amount because this section can be assured of great development," Wallace said. "At present the people will not vote for this $225,000 election. It is too great an expense and unnecessary."

The proposed election, according to the plans, would install a large pipe system for the peninsula where Newport Beach and Balboa are situated. The system would supply water to Balboa island and across to Corona del Mar.

Because Corona del Mar is constructing its distributing system and it freed the water bond indebtedness of the city prior to annexation, opposition is presented to the issue on the basis that the evident purpose is to supply water to the new district back of the Palisades.

Development for 25 years will be cared for by the $225,000 issue. Immediate steps are demanded for replacing the old inadequate system. Owners on Balboa island and lower Balboa are insistent for water at any cost.

Joe Beck, vice president of the Balboa Island Improvement association, declared that the expense was no bar in their need for water.

Smaller bond issues were suggested to care for the city needs by furnishing sufficient pressure to the suffering section for a shorter period.

The demand for a water supply was declared by J. P. Greeley of Balboa, to be strong enough to carry any amount for a bond election. Opposing Wallace he said he believed the $225,000 issue would be approved.

Grovel In Dust To Show Loyalty

PEZ, July 28.—Groveling in the dust and mutilating themselves as a sign of their submission and future loyalty to the French, women of the Branes tribe went into French headquarters at Taza and implored the French to give them protection. Behind them came their men folks, chiefs of the tribe, gowned in white, their heads buried in massive white turbans their beards fierce and shaggy against the head covering. With their women, they prayed to be counted loyal to the French.

EBELL CLUB WILL PRESENT PROGRAM AT BEACH TONIGHT

NEWPORT BEACH, July 28.—Under the auspices of the Ebelle club, an artistic program of drama and music is to be given this evening at 8 o'clock in the auditorium at the Newport Beach grammar school.

Mrs. Edward Dvorak, accomplished actor and dramatic coach, is to present the three act tragedy, "Declasse." In addition to the play she is to give some readings in lighter vein. All the characters of "Declasse" are acted by Mrs. Dvorak.

This is the first appearance of the dramatic artist since she took up residence in the Modjeska cottage on Bay island. She has charge of the dramatic section of the Ebelle club here.

The entertainment tonight will include many features. Miss Emma Hardy, recently returned from study in the East, will give some violin selections. Another musician of note on the program is Mrs. Helen Swartz, coloratura soprano of Los Angeles. Miss Swartz will be accompanied by her sister, Miss Theo, Bernicke.

Funds obtained from the entertainment will be used by the Ebelle club to remove indebtedness on the newly remodeled clubhouse.

Arrangements for the varied program were made by Mrs. Ernest Grill, chairman of the ways and means committee assisted by Mrs. W. R. Crozier and Mrs. Conrad Richter of the building committee.

Marathon Bridge Party to Feature Laguna Festival

LAGUNA BEACH, July 27.—Marathon bridge parties are something new. There will be one in connection with La Fiesta Espanola at Laguna Beach August 5, 6, 7 and 8. There have been marathon gun chewing contests, marathon dancing and piano playing contests, marathon runners and marathon cigarette smokers, but it remained for Laguna Beach to figure out the most novel and interesting bit of foolishness with a pretty stiff prize for the winner, a marathon bridge.

The bridge games are to be played three afternoons, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, in the Community Club house and there will be three prizes given each day for high scores and a grand prize for the highest score of the three days.

Armenian Given U. S. Citizenship Rights by Court

PORTLAND, Ore., July 28.—Native Armenians are eligible to U. S. citizenship, according to a decision handed down in federal court here, when Judge Wolverton dismissed a suit brought by the government against the citizenship of Tatos O. Carosarian of this city, and a native Armenian.

Judge Wolverton gave three reasons for his opinion. First, that Armenians in Asia Minor are Alpine stock, of European origin; second, that they are white persons, in the commonly accepted usage of speech, as commonly understood in this country, when the law concerning such cases was adopted; and third, that they amalgamated with the white inhabitants of the United States.

Findings of noted authors, travelers and scientists were quoted by the judge in his decision, to show that Armenians are "free white" people within the meaning of the naturalization laws.

To understand why U.S. Royal Balloons are known as "the Balloon Tire Principle at its Best," consider these facts—

THE comfort you get out of balloon tires depends on how soft you can run them with safety to the tires.

U.S. Royal Balloons are built in strict accordance with the original conception of balloon tire cushioning—true low air pressure.

They can be run at pressures which actually give you the comfort you expect from a balloon tire.

They do not have to be over-inflated to save them from early, uneven and disfiguring tread wear.

This is because their flat "Low-Pressure Tread" distributes the weight over a greater tread area than the ordinary round tread.

The entire surface of the tread comes in contact with the road.

The tire itself is built of the famous Latex-treated Web Cord, which gives the maximum strength and maximum flexibility so essential to balloon cushioning.

Put U.S. Royal Balloons on your car and enjoy the comfort of riding on genuine low air pressure.

PUBLIC OWES BIG DEBT TO MALNOURISHED LITTLE FOLK

Need More Money in Operating Children's Summer Camp in Trabuco Canyon

KIDDIES DERIVE UNTOLD BENEFITS

Gains in Weight, Health Are Recorded for Those Who Enjoy Outdoor Life

By OLIVE LOPEZ

Orange county owes a debt. It is a big and a very important debt, a debt which must be paid to the malnourished and underweight children of the county.

Is Orange county able to pay this debt? She is. She claims to be the richest and biggest little county in the world.

This is not a want ad story, but I wish to insert this call right here:

Wanted—Twenty thousand people in Orange county to help establish a permanent open air health camp for our unfortunate little folk. Answer by taking a trip to the camp now in operation in Trabuco canyon, up by the old tin mines, and if you do not come away wanting to give every cent in the world you possess to help these thin little ones "play the health game," then I haven't lived in Orange county all of my life.

Children's Pleading Voices
If this call is not heeded now, I hope it will be at the close of this year, when the campaign for selling Christmas seals is on, and when these 20,000 Orange county citizens will heed the pleading voices of children who are begging for a chance to be 100 per cent citizens in health.

I went up to the Trabuco camp yesterday with Mrs. Amelia Meagher, executive secretary for the Orange County Tuberculosis association, who is in charge of the camp, and the most enthusiastic person in her work I have ever seen in action. I found a much better plant than was maintained last year, but, oh, it is far from what it should be!

However, it is accomplishing its God-given purpose insofar as the limited accommodations provide. A group of 30 boys is just finishing a happy six weeks' outing, when they should have six years of it. But even now they are plump and rosy and some have "gone over the top," and are above weight with just that breath of the great health-giving out-of-doors. When

WILL SPEAK ON WORLD TOUR AT KIWANIS CLUB

T. A. Winbiger will recount, for the last time in public, he declares, incidents of his world tour at the meeting tomorrow of the Santa Ana Kiwanis club. It is rather a strange coincidence that an undertaker, which is Winbiger's professional calling, is to be the principal speaker on a program controlled by a committee composed of an undertaker and a doctor, George S. Smith and Dr. John Wehrly.

Commenting on this fact in his weekly letter to Kiwanians, Fred Forgy, secretary, says:

MORE INDUSTRIES GREAT NEED IN ORANGE COUNTY, ASSERTS FULLERTON MAN

Orange county's great need at the present time is industries, George Raymer, secretary of the Fullerton Chamber of Commerce, declared in a speech at last night's dinner meeting of the Santa Ana Junior Chamber of Commerce, at Kerner's cafe.

"Agriculturally, we have about reached the saturation point," Raymer said. "If we are to keep things stabilized, we must have more industries."

"Talk is cheap. We talk a lot about industries, but do we really go out after them? Actions speak louder than words, and it takes more than wishing to bring payrolls to a community."

Citing Spokane, Oakland and Los Angeles as examples, Raymer declared that the reason these cities have large payrolls is because they went after industries in a systematic manner, having, of course, the essential things required by industrial concerns.

Two years ago, Fullerton did not have a single industry. Now the annual payroll is $399,000, Raymer said.

"Organized effort built the pyramids, the great wall of China, the railroads of the United States, the city of Los Angeles, the city of Santa Ana," said the chamber of commerce secretary. "Organized effort will bring industries to a community. Orange county must get behind a more industries campaign."

"With one exception, we have the cheapest natural gas of any section in the country. Power is 21 per cent cheaper in Orange county than it is in Los Angeles. Markets of the United States and the world are available to us. We can ship clear to New York city and compete successfully with eastern firms. Raw materials are available in abundance."

"What helps Santa Ana helps Fullerton, and whenever you people secure an industry, Fullerton profits as well."

Rudolph Best, general manager and treasurer of the California Citrus Pesticide company, now located in Whittier, explained the various steps necessary in the manufacture of pecan. The company hopes to move to Santa Ana, Best stated.

Accepting an offer from Max Ames, proprietor of the A. & B. Bowling alleys, the members voted to hold a benefit contest at the Ames establishment the evening of August 1.

EXHIBITORS TO BE GIVEN HELP BY SPECIALIST

Stereoscopic views of some of the leading educational exhibits in the United States will be shown in Santa Ana August 11 and 12, for the benefit of prospective exhibitors at the Orange County Fair and Industrial exposition, according to announcement today by J. R. Raglan, superintendent of community exhibits.

The school will consist of two illustrated lectures by William J. Norton, of the University of California, extension specialist in illustrative material. Norton has a wide reputation as a result of his teaching and the success of exhibits he has planned. He will show many noteworthy examples of effective display in connection with his lectures, the first of which will cover community and the second commercial exhibiting, it is declared.

Purpose of the sessions is to aid prospective exhibitors, in planning their display at the Orange County fair, to get the greatest amount of good out of them. Special detailed assistance will be offered to community exhibitors, for whom Norton is prepared to make up complete instructions for building the exhibit, once he has the necessary information as to what is desired.

The lectures will be given in the farm bureau directors rooms, Hall of Records, at 10 a. m. August 11 and 12. Interested persons are invited to attend.

LIPPINCOTT TO SPEAK AT MEET IN CAPISTRANO

Expert Will Discuss Water Situation Before Associated Chambers Session

Discussion by J. P. Lippincott of water conservation in Orange county; presentation of matters concerning the state highway in Orange county, by N. T. Edwards, of Orange, member of the state highway commission, and remarks by J. L. McBride, superintendent of county highways, on the proposed Elsinore-Capistrano highway, across the mountains, are among the features scheduled for the meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce, to be held Thursday night in Capistrano, according to announcement made today by George Raymer, Fullerton, secretary of the county organization.

The entertainment part of the program will include Spanish dances and a portion of the "Wandering Minstrels" playing with the Mission pageant. Garnet Holme, director of the pageant, will give a brief talk.

The meeting will be held in the Palm cafe and dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock. Because of the long distance which many of the delegates will have to go to attend the session, H. A. Loe, president, said today that every effort will be made to have the program move on schedule time.

Pointing out that Lippincott has been making an exhaustive survey of water conditions, possibilities for developing more water and conserving waters that go to waste by storm-water run-off of the Santa Ana river, Loe said it was possible Lippincott would disclose information he has gained since last discussing the subject before the associated chambers.

The state highway commission is now engaged in an extensive building program in this county, including the rebuilding of the highway between Galivan and Capistrano, and it is expected Edwards will have something to say about the situation of the right of way and the building of that portion of the county boulevard lying between Laguna Beach and Serra.

Says Blood Proves Ascent of Animal

BERKELEY, Calif., July 23.—Proof of the claim that blood of animals is related in an ascending series is claimed by Prof. David M. Greenberg, University of California.

He places man at the top. The experiments are simple. A guinea pig is inoculated with human blood. Later the mixed blood is drawn off and to it added blood of another animal. If the added blood is from some animal rated low, such as the rat, the action is too slight to be noticed.

But if mixed with blood from a horse, cow, or dog, the two form a precipitation. The higher the rating of the animal from which blood is added, the greater the precipitation.

Addition of human blood gives almost 100 per cent of precipitation.

NEW MODE FOR MEN
PARIS.—Knitted suits for men may be expected shortly. The drawback up to the present has been the stretching capacity of man's knitted fabric—the "average man's trousers would go 'baggy' at the knees after his first short walk. It is claimed, however, that this difficulty has been overcome by a new process of combining knitting and weaving.

BURGLAR RUN DOWN, CAUGHT BY POLICEMAN

Manual Sevilla, Santa Ana Mexican, is in the Orange county jail, charged with burglary.

He was arrested at 2 o'clock this morning, after an irate householder had emptied a load of shotgun pellets in his direction, and after Officers V. Mohr and Wilson had chased him for several blocks.

C. W. Decker and family, of 903 Garfield street, went out of the city two weeks ago, on a vacation. They returned early yesterday, to find that, during their absence, the home had been entered, and a gold watch stolen. The theft was reported to the police.

Expect Burglar to Return
The burglar who entered the house left clues that led Decker and the police to believe that he would come back, in order to carry away loot that he did not take on his first visit.

So last night Decker waited with a shotgun. He dozed once and was awakened by a noise in the house. A man was seen to run. Decker followed him out of the house and opened fire.

At one of the shots, the fleeing form was seen to fall, and Decker was certain that his shot had found his mark.

The police lost no time in reaching the house. When they arrived, the supposedly wounded fled, but Officer Mohr ran him down and locked handcuffs around his wrists.

Just Playing Possum
An examination proved that the burglar was not wounded, but was merely playing "possum."

Revaluation On German Bonds Is Complaint Cause
Upon the alleged representation of W. King that he had been commissioned by a San Francisco brokerage firm to collect outstanding German government on a 15 per cent gold basis, Dr. Herbert A. Johnston, of Anaheim, turned over to King German pre-war bonds valued at $2000 with the understanding that King was to have the bonds sent to Germany for revaluation, according to a complaint issued today at the office of District Attorney A. P. Nelson.

In the alleged obtaining money under false pretenses, Dr. Johnston told Chief Deputy District Attorney C. N. Mozley, who issued the complaint, that King had represented himself to be the agent of C. P. Richards and company, San Francisco brokers. King told the doctor, it was claimed, that the German government had adopted the gold standard and that all outstanding pre-war bonds had been called in for revaluation on a gold basis. King was to send the bonds to the San Francisco firm, which was to forward them to Berlin.

All of these claims on the part of King were false and were made for the purpose of defrauding the physician, it is alleged. The bonds were issued by the cities of Dresden, Hamburg and Vienna, the latter in Austria, according to the complaint.

INSPECTOR OF MEAT SUBMITS ANNUAL REPORT OF ACTIVITIES

Bowers Reviews Existing State of Affairs Previous To Jury Probe

COMPLAINTS CAUSE OF INVESTIGATION

Unsanitary Conditions Discussed by Committee Are Generally Remedied

According to the annual report of John H. Bowers, chief meat inspector for Orange county, on file today with the board of supervisors, 24,483 animals were slaughtered in Orange county for the fiscal year ended June 30. During the 12 month period, the officer made 4161 inspections.

The slaughtered animals were divided as follows: Cattle, 6062; hogs, 19,721; sheep, 5006; calves, 2681, and goats, 19. Inspections of meat markets numbered 2524; fish markets, 140; poultry markets, 74; meat and fish trucks, 132; slaughter houses, 741. Improvements or changes requested numbered 287, and the improvements and changes complied with, 263.

The inspector disclosed that he condemned 95 carcasses during the year—36 cattle, 45 hogs, four sheep and 10 calves.

In opening his report, Bowers said that the grand jury in 1924 received several complaints about unsanitary conditions of slaughter houses, the complaints resulting in appointment, by D. Eymann Huff, foreman of the grand jury, of a committee to investigate the conditions.

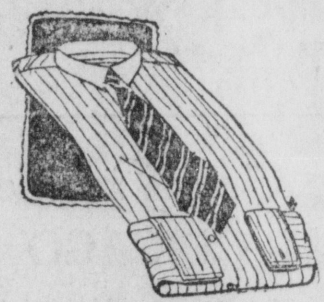

Bad Conditions Found

In his report, the inspector says: "This committee found six slaughter houses in operation. Their report showed that three of these were in a deplorable condition and, with the exception of the Anaheim Beef company, located in Anaheim, no inspections were being made. One place in particular was noted for the unsanitary and careless condition. This place had 23 dead hogs in the yard and the butcher was busily engaged in killing those left alive. All of these hogs had been or were sick with cholera. This place has since been closed. Of the two other slaughter houses in operation, the offal was being fed to the hogs in pens just outside and without being cooked. This committee further found that known tubercular cows were being brought into these slaughter houses, butchered and the meat placed on the market absolutely without inspection. This, of course, was an unbearable condition."

"Upon the report of the committee, the grand jury saw fit to recommend to the county board of supervisors that ordinances be passed whereby these slaughter houses would be inspected at frequent and regular intervals and the unsanitary and unhealthy conditions eliminated. The present board of supervisors immediately passed and adopted the necessary ordinances governing this inspection service."

Inspection Demanded
"These ordinances, among other things, specified that all meat slaughtered in the county should be inspected by a veterinarian inspector and that no meat should be allowed to be sold unless it

(If you must speed, be sure your wheels are in alignment—no charge for testing.)

Of the 37, 721 persons nabbed during the first six months of 1925 for violating California's motor rules, many were transgressors in the matter of speed.

One reason why people speed is to make up time after having tire trouble, and for this phase of the case we suggest Diamond Tires as a pretty reliable cure. You can get around quite fast within the limits of the law if you don't have to stop along the road.

After long experience with "Diamonds," we personally guarantee them.

COAL TROUBLE WILL CALM, IS COOLIDGE VIEW

By DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright, 1925)

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., July 28.—If you let things alone long enough, sometimes they right themselves. That's the policy of President Coolidge with reference to the negotiations going on between the coal miners and operators and the insistent efforts to get the chief executive to intervene to prevent a coal strike.

And it's the policy of the president about several other things, particularly the requests for tariff revision. Mr. Coolidge has just finished conference with Senator Curtis, of Kansas, Republican leader of the senate, and Senator Butler, of Massachusetts, chairman of the Republican national committee, so the disclosure of his viewpoint is particularly significant.

Won't Talk Tariff
Mr. Coolidge is disinclined to enter a discussion of the merits of tariff revision, but feels that the present tariff law has not been in operation long enough under calculable circumstances to warrant a judgment. The unsettled condition of Europe has made it next to impossible to compare costs of production with accuracy and there is always the fluctuating element of foreign exchange.

The president is of the opinion that, since exports and imports both have risen higher than in any previous peace years, there is nothing to be disturbed about and that more time is really needed to judge the tariff. He particularly wants this known now so there will be no hesitation in business, as there sometimes is when congress is expected to tinker with the tariff. So far as the president and the power of his administration in congress is concerned, it will be on the side of letting the tariff alone.

Lets Evolution Alone
There are other things on which the president wants to keep hands off. The evolution controversy is one. No comment could be elicited from him as to the outbreak of evolution fever in Washington. It's something which Mr. Coolidge has learned to let severely alone. Should any piece of legislation containing the issue ever be put up to him, he will meet it on its merits, but if congress wants to get into a wrangle about evolution and waste a lot of time that ought to be devoted to other matters less academic, certainly no encouragement for such a course will be derived from Calvin Coolidge.

As for the coal strike, the negative policy of the president has its origin in a deep-seated belief that the parties to the controversy would like nothing better than have the responsibility for a decision placed upon the government, especially if the net result is an increase in the price of fuel to the consumer. Mr. Coolidge will not get his fingers burnt by the coal problem and will not even suggest government intervention until it is apparent that the parties have exhausted every effort to agree and that the industrial world has failed also in preventing the strike, which it is admitted will injure industry, particularly if work in the bituminous fields is interrupted for any length of time.

Andrews Has Free Hand
Lastly, among the things which Mr. Coolidge has let it be known that he will keep hands off is the prohibition enforcement policy of Lincoln C. Andrews, assistant secretary of the treasury, who is trying to build up a personnel throughout the country which is in no way responsible to political leaders for appointments. Mr. Andrews has a free hand and need not fear the wrath of any member of the senate or house or Republican leader, national or state. It's not a new development, but its renewed emphasis by the chief executive is significant that there is no ambiguity in the policy itself and that efficiency is really the objective.

HARVEST IN COLORADO
DENVER, July 28.—Colorado's grain harvest is under way with a greatly reduced yield in some crops, owing to lack of moisture. Wheat, oats and hay show a decline, but corn, barley and rye may have a slight increase. Potatoes are slightly ahead of 1924, but fruits generally are below the 1924 condition.

Will Ascertain How Women May Aid During War

WASHINGTON, July 28.—In the army's forthcoming study of the use of women in time of war, Miss Anita Evans Phipps, who holds the unique post of director of women's relations, has been assigned a major role. Born in the service herself, the daughter of an army officer, and having served in the Red Cross ranks during the World war, she is regarded as peculiarly fitted for the task.

Miss Phipps is engaged at present in delving into historical records and books to ascertain just what women's part in past wars of the United States has been. Questionnaires have been addressed to army corps area commanders to sound out their opinions regarding the use of women in possible future wars and to glean information concerning their utilization in the World war.

Rather than take a man out of an important job in civilian life and later place him as an army cook, Miss Phipps is of the opinion that a woman could more efficiently and economically do the cooking for a service unit, leaving the skilled man on his original job. This is only one instance in which she believes women can be drawn for active service.

Miss Phipps was born at Augusta, Maine, and lived in the service until the retirement of her father, Brig. Gen. Frank Huntington Phipps, in 1907.

At the outbreak of the World war she enlisted as a private in the motor corps of the Red Cross, having also been with the home service section, and later was appointed director of the motor corps service of the Pennsylvania-Delaware division of the Red Cross.

Next she became supervisor of women's relations at Governor's Island, New York, and when Mrs. John Casserly, of San Francisco, resigned in 1921 as director of women's relations in the war department, Miss Phipps was appointed to succeed her.

When one of the local wise-crackers voiced a pun about Cline-schmidt's name, the latter knocked him through a plate glass window and was fined $30 for the punch. "That one punch would have been worth $50 if we'd been in a ring. I'm loser $80," was the hotel man's comment as he paid the fine.

RUMANIA WILL DISCUSS DEBT WITH AMERICA

By JUNIUS B. WOOD
(Special Cable)

BUCHAREST, July 28.—Rumania's commission to discuss the nation's $46,000,000 post-war debt to the United States ought to arrive in Washington in September, according to Jean Duca, minister of foreign affairs.

Although it is declared in unofficial quarters that Antonescu is likely to head the commission with Luca, neither the personnel nor the number of members has been decided, and the final selections will not be made until the arrival in Bucharest of Minister "Prince" Bibesco, who was recalled from Washington for the purpose of discussing the American attitude and also the possible outcome of parleys.

Ready to Discuss Debt
Official notification that Rumania, after many months of delay due to an exchange of notes of increasing tardiness, was prepared to discuss its debt, was made in an extremely informal manner by Minister Duca, who called at the American legation and orally notified Benjamin Riggs, the American charge d'affaires, that the government had decided to send a commission and that he already had cabled Minister Bibesco to return to the United States to arrange the preliminaries of the commission, which will consist of financial, economic and other experts.

According to the foreign office, Vintala Bratiano, minister of finance, who a month ago proposed to go to the United States, will not be included in the commission. According to present plans, the commission will not include any member of the cabinet.

Antonescu, who is the only possible member mentioned, is judge of the supreme court and also is a member of the mixed claims commission for regulating debts between Austria and Rumania. He was chairman of the Rumanian debt commission to the United States in 1921, which failed to reach an agreement, and also was a member of similar commissions to Vienna and Paris.

Unfavorable Toward U. S.
Local newspapers are taking an unfavorable attitude toward the United States on account of insistence of discussion of the debt, contending that Rumania, though preferring to discuss the question jointly with other powers is forced into an individual conference following the acceptance by other countries of the American plan to discuss separately.

WEST END THEATER.

"Find Your Man," the feature at the West End theater this week, is one of the few pictures that can be considered above the ordinary. It is excellent entertainment.

The star of the feature must be commended for an unusual display of talent, especially since the hero is none other than Rin-Tin-Tin, the famous Belgian police dog which was brought over from France some time ago. His acting is so real, that one wonders sometimes whether he is not gifted with human intelligence. He is seen swimming with two people hanging on to his collar for support, scaling tremendous heights, registering love and hate.

A more beautiful setting could not have been chosen. The forest floating logs, the falls—all these add atmosphere to the kind of background Director Mal St. Clair was trying to create.

The plot is unusually good—perhaps a little different—and the characterizations are excellent. The cast includes Rin-Tin-Tin, June Marlowe, the girl of the soulful eyes; Eric St. Clair, Charles Malles, Pat Hartigan, Fred Stanton, Lew Harvey and Charles Conklin.

WALKER'S THEATER
This is summer. The weather is warm. Nothing is better for one at this time of year than an evening of refreshing entertainment. If you would drive dull care away and enjoy three hours of fun don't fail to see this week's Orpheum bill at Walker's theater. It is a wow.

Wells, Virginia and West, long time Orpheum headliners, are just as good, maybe better, than when Reviewer saw them last at the San Francisco Orpheum. They are the famous "Two Sailors and a Girl" of vaudeville and if you haven't seen them work you haven't seen three of the best entertainers on the American stage.

At that, the Walker audiences seemed to fall heaviest for Edward J. Lambert, his trick "get-up" and his elongated partner, Fanchon Frankel who do an excruciatingly funny turn entitled, "Youth and Beauty." Lambert was forced to respond to half a dozen curtain calls last night, applause richly deserved. H. C. Witwer at his best ning of August 3. The proceeds, less actual expenses, will be turned into the band fund. President Stanley Clem appointed Mason Yould and Lin Crawford as captains of contesting teams.

Another benefit for the band will be held at the Roamer hall, August 4. Manager Dyer is offering to turn over all money, less actual expenses, to the band fund. The hall formerly was known as the Elite.

The trade excursion, which the chamber plans to hold September 9, will be in charge of the board of directors, assisted by a committee consisting of Howard Barrows, L. C. Masters and C. F. Randall.

The entertainment committee for the next meeting will consist of Allison Honer, chairman; Howard A. Barrows, T. Jensen, R. C. Edwards and L. C. Masters.

Entertainment last evening consisted of numbers by the Griff Barnett troupe; a burlesque on Eugene Field's "Night Wind," by Miss Dolly Dennis, and a comedy skit, "Percy and Howard at the Race Track," with Harold and Carson Smith in the leading roles. The skit was written by Carson Smith. Members of the Barnett troupe, who are appearing at the Suburban playhouse at Orana, entertained as follows:

Recitation, "The Smattering Anecdotes," Griff Barnett; vocal solos, "Big Base Viol" and "The Philosopher," Louis Fitzroy; recitation, "A Game of Cards," Iva Shepard; comedy sketch, "Far, Far Away," Cyril Delevanti; vocal solos, "Break of Day," and "In My Garden," Madame Delevanti.

The McDonald Trio do some hair-raising stunts on bicycles that are as good as you will see anywhere. "Smooth as Satin" is the name of the picture and it isn't as bad as it sounds. Its a crook play, featuring Evelyn Brent, and there are fights, speeding automobiles, safecracking scenes, near murders and all that sort of thing.

The program will be repeated at Walker's theater tonight and tomorrow, afternoon and evening.

YOST THEATER.

Clara Bow, Herbert Rawlinson and Earle Williams are the featured players in "The Adventurous Sex," which will be the attraction at the Yost theater tonight and tomorrow, but the cast includes other well-known names as well, among the most prominent being Harry T. Morey and Flora Finch.

"The Adventurous Sex" is an ultra modern story of the young generation and Miss Bow, perhaps the screen's best known flapper, has a part of an adventurous young thing, who, tiring of parental interference and a constant stream of "don'ts," takes life into her own hands and starts out to blaze a trail. Her striving for freedom brings about a very embarrassing situation and puts her in a bad light with the man she really loves, but who, for the present at least, seemed entirely too straight-laced to suit her.

The gay life of the young folks is said to be pictured with fidelity. The climax of the story comes with a sensational rescue from an airplane when the disillusioned girl plunges into the Niagara river.

MEAT INSPECTOR ISSUES REPORT

bore government, state, county or city inspection brands. In order to facilitate this work, it was found necessary to appoint two veterinarian inspectors, one to act as chief meat inspector, with headquarters in Santa Ana, and the other to act as assistant meat inspector, with headquarters at the Anaheim Beef company, the output of meat from the above mentioned company being so great that it required the services of one man on a full time basis. The chief meat inspector was to take care of the smaller slaughter houses of the county, look after the butcher shops, meat wagons, fish and poultry markets.

Examined for Disease

"All meat slaughtered is examined for signs of disease, particular attention being paid to tuberculosis, cholera, actinomycosis, emaciation and immature veal. At the same time this meat inspection is made, a thorough inspection of the plants, personnel and utensils is made. Every plant must be kept in a clean and sanitary manner. In addition to the above, the chief meat inspector makes the rounds of all the meat markets in the county, where he notes the condition of the plant, the personnel implements, condition of the coolers and the condition of the meat in the coolers. All this meat must bear the brand of one of the above named authorities. The object of this meat inspection service is to give the people of Orange county meat that has been inspected at the time it is killed and to see that it is handled in the most sanitary manner possible. The proprietors of all meat markets and slaughter houses in the county and their assistants are co-operating with the county meat inspection department in putting on this work. Most of the butchers have expressed their appreciation for this service and have stated that they are glad it was instituted.

Two Houses Rebuilt

"Two of the slaughter houses which formerly operated have been rebuilt; these at an approximate cost of $20,000. They are small but complete in all respects. The hogs at all slaughtering plants are not allowed to be kept within 150 feet of the plant, and all plants have cesspools. The offal from the slaughter houses is cooked and used for hog feed or converted into fertilizer. All of these plants have tightly screened cooling rooms, where the carcasses are allowed to hang until cool. The meat is then placed on the market or in cold storage.

"All incorporated cities in the county, with one exception, have made arrangements with the board of supervisors for this meat inspection service. These inspections are made at least twice a month and oftener if some particular problem arises that demands inspection."

WORMS CAN SING

FRIEBURG, Germany.—Professor Mangold, well known German zoologist, says that earthworms can "sing." The professor claims that worms produce long-drawn connected musical sounds between which even a certain rhythm is audible at times. The sound, he says is like that of the membrane of a dry leaf tapped with a tin hammer, and can be heard clearly 12 feet away.

Fine Arts Palace To Be Preserved

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—The palace of fine arts, a structure which graced the Panama-Pacific international exposition of 1915 here, is to be saved from ruin and will be preserved.

The building will be taken over by the park commission together with 10 acres of ground, which are to be beautified, and put into shape for permanent use.

The city secured possession of the property through a trade with the government, whereby city land will be allowed for United States use in extending a belt line railroad into the Presidio.

PUBLIC OWES DEBT TO LITTLE FOLK

they went to camp six weeks ago, they were a handful of emaciated, pitiful-looking little lads.

Girls In Camp Next

A group of girls will be taken to camp this week for six weeks to play the health game.

The children sleep under the stars with the great heavens for a roof, and they wear "sunshine" suits, which expose their bodies to the health-giving rays of the sun. After dinner, which is served at noon, they have a rest period, and some are able to sleep during the entire time.

The program begins at 6 a. m. and is carried out as follows: Rising, dressing, inspection and exercises, flag salute, singing patriotic songs, which the children have learned; breakfast, bedmaking, equal work (cleaning up camp), quiet recreation, mid-morning lunch of milk and crackers, rest, recreation, wash for dinner, dinner, tooth brush drill, rest, quiet recreation, afternoon lunch of milk or buttermilk, athletics, reading, baths, supper, story-telling, games, prepare for bed, silence.

The children are weighed and measured at regular intervals and as weights are announced showing the coveted gains, cries of "lucky dog" may be heard from the less fortunate ones. Every pound gained is counted as $100 in the bank of health. Each child is given a chart to take home.

On Sunday various denominations furnish teachers for Sunday school and visitors are permitted.

Maintain Good Discipline

The camp is well disciplined and is practically self-governed, the largest boys being the officers and wearing badges. Mrs. Meagher is assisted by Miss Vita Kovinsky, of Pasadena, and Miss Evelyn Yount, of Santa Ana, and it is wonderful to see the deep interest of these young women in their youthful charges. Miss Sue Wyatt, of Portland, Ore., a friend of Mrs. Meagher, went to see the camp and was so impressed with the need of helping the over-worked secretary, that she has been there three weeks and is giving noble assistance.

And right now is my chance to insert another classified ad. It is this: Wanted—Some men who will do the trucking for Mrs. Meagher, who, besides being the administrative head, doctor, nurse and "mother" of the camp, has to make innumerable trips back and forth over the rocky road carrying in milk and groceries. Surely, someone will answer this appeal and offer to take some of the burden off Mrs. Meagher's shoulders. At least, anyone making the trip to camp can stop at Nichols service station at the boulevard and El Toro road and ask if there is anything to take up. And while at camp ask about that canvas needed to cover the beds in case of storm and some more for the dining room awning. And a radio. What a joy it would be!

The board of supervisors has taken more interest in the health project this year, and, while but $1000 in money was appropriated for the work, prisoners were sent to clean off the site, to chop wood and perform various other tasks in order to make the place habitable. Deputy Sheriff McKague has been a real "fairy," and then there are J. B. Stephenson, district forest ranger, Robert Northcross and many others, who will have stars in their crowns for their help in this health game.

$2100 Given to Work

Besides the $1000 county appropriation, $1100 has been donated by individuals and anyone with half an eye can figure how much can be done for little undernourished kiddies with such a sum. Mrs. Meagher is eager to keep some of the wee boys longer, as a number have from five to seven pounds to gain before they are normal. And these tiny lads are so adorable! Is it fair that we do not give them the chance they need? Little Julian gained four pounds in one week, the biggest gain in the six weeks being eight pounds.

Everything done by the kiddies in camp is a thought for health as taught by their good leaders, who urge the children to keep up the good work when they return home. This is not a very good newspaper article and it was not meant to be. It is just a heart to heart appeal for justice to be done for some of these, the weakest of our brethren, and a suggestion that some organization, which is just rarin' to do something worth while, to take up the cudgels and see to it that funds are obtained to provide a worthy open air health camp, which will look after the welfare of our children, the same as our farm bureaus expend money for plants and animals.

Let's invest in health for children this coming year! It will pay big dividends in good citizens in the years to come.

President Harding said: "Service is the greatest thing in the human calendar, and the better we equip ourselves the better we serve, because in the expansion of the mind comes the better understanding of how best to serve. No matter what your fortunes in life, the greatest compensation that will come to your tomorrow or next year or the closing year of your life, will be the consciousness that you have somehow been of service, either to your friends, your state or your country. This is the greatest thing that can happen."

FAITH IN GOD DISCLOSED BY FINAL APPEAL

NEW YORK, July 28.—William Jennings Bryan's last written appeal, contained in his Sunday school lesson which will not be released until August 15, declares a lasting belief that a supernatural power governs the world—a power that communicates instructions to man.

Through the courtesy of the Republic syndicate, which distributed Bryan's Sunday school lessons to a large number of newspapers, the United Press is enabled to announce exclusively the topic of Bryan's last article. It is a stirring appeal for the old faith, entitled "A Macedonian Call."

Bryan harks back to the vision of Paul at Troas (site of ancient Troy) when, in company with Silas and Timothy, he received a divine summons to go to Macedonia and preach.

Bryan saw three lessons in the call:

1.—That there was a supernatural power that governed the world and which could transmit messages to mortals.

2.—That there were always fields in which the gospel should be preached.

3.—That God works through men to save the world.

Bryan pointed out that the religion of Christ has made a great appeal to woman.

"It has lifted woman to a higher place and more fully recognized her inalienable right to full companionship with men," he stated.

The text of the lesson was taken from Acts VI, 6-15.

CATACOMB SAINT'S IDENTITY MYSTERY

ROME, July 28.—Departure of Bishop Gallagher, of Detroit, from Rome with the body of Saint Christina, a catacomb saint, which had been presented by the pope to the Cleveland diocese, has occasioned much speculation as to the saint's identity.

Prof. Horace Marucchi, the famous archeologist and perhaps the world's most learned student of catacomb lore, who was interviewed by the correspondent, said:

"Roman martyrology, the official book of martyrs and saints, published by authorization of the church, mentions only two Saint Christinas."

One was martyred at the town of Bolzena 40 miles south of Rome during the persecution of the Emperor Diocletian. The latter's body is in Bolzena catacombs over which in the fourth century was built a splendid basilica which still stands. This Christina, who is the Roman saint of Bolzena, is the object of almost fanatical veneration the townsfolk who every year July 24 enact a representation of the barbarous, cruel torture to which she was subjected. It would be impossible to send her body to the United States, as this would be a revolution among the people.

Undoubtedly the body which is sent to America is another one of the thousand of catacomb martyrs canonized en bloc, but whose name has been preserved by inscription on the tomb."

Urges Woman as Prison Director

SACRAMENTO, July 28.—A request that a woman be appointed by Gov. Friend W. Richardson to fill the position on the state board of prison directors, left vacant by the resignation of John G. Matton, has been filed with the chief executive by Mrs. Clara Shortridge Foltz, of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Foltz believes that the "womanly touch" would be of great assistance to the prison board in the administration of its duties and that the board should have had a woman member long ago.

In her letter to the governor Mrs. Foltz says:

"I recognize that the board consists of good men, eager to administer the duties of their high office humanely and for the best interests of the wayward sons of women but men have pronounced limitations, and too often have proved themselves unequal to the complex demands of modern science in handling prisoners in our institutions."

The governor has not yet named Matton's successor.

FRENCH QUIT ESSEN
BERLIN, July 28.—French evacuation of Essen, "Germany's Pittsburgh," together with Düsseldorf, long occupation headquarters of the French, was started yesterday, according to an Essen message, which said the troops would probably be clear of these two important points Wednesday.

Child at Rear of Ice Truck Killed

LOS ANGELES, July 28.—Little Jack Murray, aged 5 years, died at the receiving hospital yesterday, half an hour after he had been run over by an ice truck. Dudley R. Nolan, driver of the truck, said the child hopped on the rear of the truck to get a piece of ice and, as he jumped off, fell in such manner that one of the wheels ran over his body.

EVOLUTIONISTS HELD BY BRYAN HIS WORST FOE

DAYTON, Tenn., July 28.—William Jennings Bryan regarded advocates of the teaching of evolution in the public schools as his bitter enemies and evolution as the result of the most important question confronting the American people, he told the United Press in an interview a week before he died.

The Commoner requested that his views not be published at the time because of the pending Scopes trial.

"In all my days of public life, I have never been so abused by anyone as by the evolution crowd—not even by Republicans," he said. "They misrepresent me and they vilify me. The defense in this case cannot open their mouths without hurling insults at me."

"The issue, one year from today, is going to be more burning than it is now," he continued, referring to the enormous flood of publicity attendant upon the trial. "The Churches at last are awake. I confess I was disappointed by their lethargy and indifference toward this question, which strikes at their roots. They are talking about it. They are in the right to stay."

OUT OUR WAY

BERLIN, July 28.—The United States is facing an epidemic of nervous disturbances from lead particles emitted by motor cars using gasoline strengthened by tetra-ethyl lead, no matter how carefully preparations are taken, a Dortmund physician, Max Gruenewald, declares in an article in the Vossische Zeitung.

According to Gruenewald, 10,000 motor cars running from six to 12 hours a day every day for a year, will liberate tons of lead in the form of dust. These particles will be breathed by the population and for some people the inhalation of even a few milligrams daily for a considerable period, will provoke lead poisoning of various kinds.

The motors themselves will keep in the air lead particles thrown from the exhaust and thereby perpetuate the process.

The physician urges the prohibition of such substances in Germany and legislation to protect the population from them. (Copyright 1925, by Chicago Daily News.)

New Measure Will Protect Producers

SACRAMENTO, July 28.—In an effort to protect the interests of California fruit producers, the state division of weights and measures of the department of agriculture, has fixed the weight on empty fruit and vegetable lugs.

The weight of empty lugs with covers is fixed at four and a quarter pounds and without covers at three and one-half pounds.

The ruling went into effect on July 20 and is expected to result in a great saving to the producers.

Heretofore, wholesale buyers have been deducting 5 pounds from the weight of each full lug in purchasing shipments from the producers.

Accused Slayer Leaps to Death

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 28.—Dr. R. J. Phelan, a Jekyll-Hyde charged with manslaughter growing out of the death of Mrs. Lucille Barr last week, yesterday committed suicide by leaping from the fifth floor window of a downtown hotel. He was instantly killed.

ESTIMATE WOOL OUTPUT
WASHINGTON, July 28.—Wool in the United States during 1925 will total 2,683,500 pounds, an increase of 11,350,000 pounds over 1924, the department of agriculture estimates in a preliminary report.

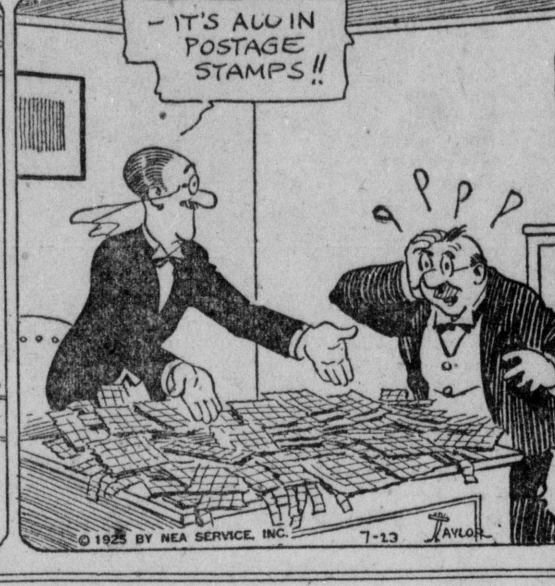

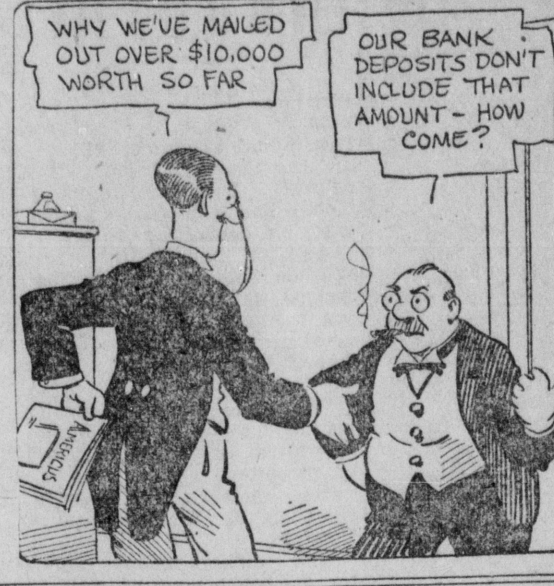

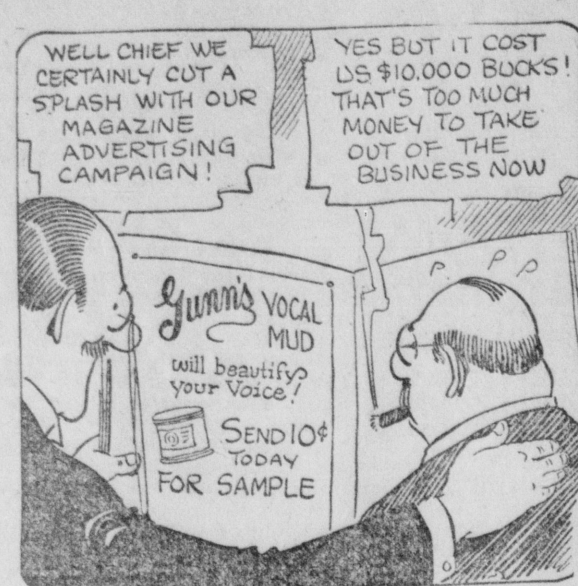

SHEEP IN DEMAND
FORT WORTH, July 28.—A brisk demand for sheep has developed at all Texas market points and shipments are heavy.

YE JAIL BIRDS WREAK VENGEANCE ON COUNTY 'COOP' WITH CROW-BARS

"Prisoners are tearing up the jail!"

This cry, heard from the court-house steps early today, caused quite a commotion, until it was learned that it was the old jail that was being wrecked, instead of the new one, and that the prisoners were working under the direction of County Purchasing Agent "Doc" Slabaugh.

For weeks the county has been trying to sell the old county jail, including its equipment, but there were no buyers.

Slabaugh has written to every sheriff and police department in several states trying to find a buyer for the old jail equipment, but to no avail. He even advertised for house wreckers and junk men, and still there was no one who wanted the old jail.

Two contractors decided at one time they wanted the privilege of tearing down the old structure, and $1000 was the amount of money in question. The hopes of the county arose, but alas, the contractors' bid was that the county pay them $1000 for tearing it down. So the offer was refused.

There was nothing else to do but turn the jail over to the prisoners—men who served behind its cold walls. And from the progress they are making, they certainly are avenging themselves.

The old building already is a wreck, and the prisoners have been working only a half day. The roof is gone and the men began this afternoon on the stone and brick work.

It is quite a privilege for prisoners to tear down a jail, and the seven men who are working on it now are getting a big "kick" out of the work.

"We are merely clearing the property," Slabaugh said today. "No plans for a new structure have been drawn and we are just getting the old building out of the way so the property will be ready should the county desire to build," he declared.

Rumors have been current, of late, of a new addition to the Hall of Records. That a new addition eventually will be added to the Hall of Records, is admitted, but just when it will be erected is doubtful at this time.

The old jail building has served its purpose. It is 23 years old, five years older than the county court-house building, and it has seen its day.

WILLARD SMITH

Willard Smith, Orange rancher, who is believed to have the best chance for appointment to the board of supervisors to succeed Leon Whitsell, resigned. Whitsell will become a member of the state railroad commission.

WHITSELL RESIGNS FROM COUNTY BOARD

Today's session of the county supervisors was the last to be attended by Leon Whitsell, of Orange, as a member. Whitsell mailed his resignation to Governor Richardson at Long Beach, today, so that he might accept the position of state railroad commissioner tendered to him last week by the governor.

Willard Smith, banker and rancher of Orange, is believed to have the inside track for the appointment. Governor Richardson's selection to fill the vacancy is expected within a few days.

The supervisors spent part of the morning session in executive session.

Financial and Market News

WALL ST. JOURNAL

NEW YORK, July 28.—Further vigorous bull market demonstrations were staged in today's market. Trading expanded to the heaviest volume since May 2 and the list of stocks in which aggressive buying operations were conducted was the longest of the current bull market. Steel, Baldwin, American Can, and other leading industrial stocks were turned over in large blocks at the highest levels of the present forward movement.

Sharp advances occurred in Brown Shoe, Westinghouse Air Brake, American Ice and numerous other issues of the specialties, while additional gains were scored by Woolworth, White Motors, Fisher Body, General Motors and other recent leaders. Constructive enthusiasm was dampened somewhat by the development of heavy profit taking in the afternoon trading. This movement naturally had greater influence on the industrials than on the rails which displayed activity.

Substantial gains were scored in stocks of the common, Norfolk and Southern and the M. K. and T. issues. Buying of the rails was in large measure attributed to the solidly held showing made by most roads in their June earnings statements. Prices closed higher. Closing prices included:

U. S. Steel 120, up 1/4; American Can 90 1/2, up 1/4; Baldwin 114 1/2, off 1/4; Famous Players, 112, off 1/4; General Motors 89 1/2, up 1/4; International Paper 117 1/2, up 1/4; Mack Truck 18 1/2, off 1/4; Marland 4 1/2, up 1/4; Rites 3, up 1/4; S. CHICAGO, July 28.—Wheat and corn futures made good net gains in local trading here today.

Wheat held firm. Return of speculative interest of wheat was inspired by Bull comment from the northwest and a slight movement. Shorts began covering on the advance. They appeared disappointed at the market's stubbornness.

Rapidly diminishing stocks and greatly improved cash business strengthened corn prices. Broomhall comment more than offset Bearish influences.

Corn was steady and after numerous rallies firmness was seen. Provisions were steady.

MEXICAN MAN AND WOMAN ARRESTED

Charged with carrying a concealed weapon, F. Molano, 40, Mexican, of Stanton, was lodged in the Orange county jail last night by Deputy Sheriff Robert Pautz.

Molano was arrested when Deputy Sheriff Pautz went to his home to arrest Mrs. P. Lopez, Mexican woman, on a charge of being drunk and having illicit liquor in her possession. She, too, was brought to the Orange county jail.

Pautz is today in possession of a long, silver-handled dagger, which was taken from Molano, he said. The knife is one of the most handsome seen by the police in several months, its blade being a three-edge affair. Molano is alleged to have declared he was carrying the knife for protection.

Molano and Mrs. Lopez are expected to be brought before Justice Morrison late today.

NEPHEW OF SANTA ANA MAN KILLED

Paul Knauf, of the firm of Knauf and Faul, had received word today of the accidental death of his nephew, John C. Brown, 27, in Dickinson, Va.

Brown was an electrical engineer in the employ of the Virginia Power company, and had just completed, with his honors, courses in the Bliss Electrical school, in Washington, D. C., following graduation from the West Virginia university.

The young man met death when he went from office work to perform a special service in adjustment of a transformer requiring the attention of an expert. While he was standing on the transformer, with wire in hand, a helper threw him a wire for connection with a light voltage wire. By accident, the thrown wire struck a line carrying 44,000 volts, and the young electrician was killed instantly, according to reports sent to the Santa Ana relative.

The dead man was the son of Dr. John C. Brown, a prominent physician of Nallen, Va.

EVENING SALUTATION

The mountains are a silent folk:
They stand afar—alone,
And the clouds that kiss their brows at night
Hear neither sigh nor groan.
Each bears him in his ordered place
As soldiers do, and bold and high
They fold their forests round their feet
And bolster up the sky.

SAN BERNARDINO FOR IT

There can be no question about the fact that San Bernardino and Riverside county authorities are alive to the advisability of joining with Orange county in raising a fund to match $25,000 appropriated by the state for a survey of the Santa Ana river. The San Bernardino Sun declares the bill making the appropriation as "the most important bill that became effective during the week as far as San Bernardino county is concerned. Further the Sun says:

"The Santa Ana River produces more wealth than any stream of equal length in California. The State has spent vast sums of money on rivers of the State, but never has contributed to necessary work on the Santa Ana.

"Because the Santa Ana runs through three counties it is a State stream. The State has contributed largely to work on the San Gabriel River, which runs through only one county.

"The Santa Ana River watershed must have a comprehensive water conservation project, together with flood control, and the only logical way to secure it is for the survey to determine what is needed, and then the three counties seek from the legislature the needed funds. San Bernardino county should appropriate the amount needed for its share in the survey cost."

Discussing the matter, the Redlands Facts says: "Supervisors of San Bernardino, Riverside and Orange counties are to confer soon on the question of a survey of the watershed of the Santa Ana river, with the purpose in view of such developments as shall conserve to a larger degree than at present the flood waters of this area. The matter is one of very large importance. As our population grows the necessity for conserving every drop of water which falls, is impressed upon us, and we ought to do that thing in all years except those of excessive rainfall. The use of water grows all the time—the supply of it increases not at all."

If a man owned the earth, he couldn't do much more than go around and look at it, and on that basis anybody can buy it this season for a $2,000 or $3,000 tourist ticket.

GERMAN REVALUATION

President von Hindenburg has signed the "revaluation bill" passed by the reichstag, and it is now in effect. Never, perhaps, in any country, was there such a deliberate scaling down of values.

Public debts, war and pre-war, are nearly wiped out. Government obligations totalling 70,000,000,000 marks, originally representing real money, are shrunk to a gold debt of 2½ per cent that size, a mere $300,000,000 or so.

"The signing of the bill constitutes a great historical tragedy," says the Socialist newspaper, Vorwaerts. So it is, for all the people who put their fortunes in government bonds. Hindenburg himself and his family have been impoverished. And those who do not like Hindenburg—of whom there are many in the world—must give the old German bulldog credit for being a good sport about it.

Reputation is what it really is. Germany has repudiated her domestic obligations on a vast scale. And not only her public indebtedness, but to almost as great an extent, her private indebtedness. Mortgages on landed property and debts on shipping and railway lines have been revalued at 25 per cent. Industrial bonds are revalued at 15 per cent.

Here is "confiscatory action" of which Americans never dreamed. Thousands of Germans have lost big fortunes. Millions have lost the savings of years. The war has swallowed them up, aided by a government willing to use heroic methods. The professional classes have been impoverished.

There is a certain justice in it, too. The capitalist, professional and military classes, so largely responsible for the war, have lost most. The masses who had little lost least, because the country starts afresh with scarcely any internal debt to bear a heavy weight of interest and taxes.

It is bitter medicine, but good for Germany. The influential citizens who staked their fortunes on war, and lost, will not want another war. In that "historical tragedy," perhaps, lies the fairest hope of European peace.

Very likely, just as we've all sought refuge from bad roads in passenger planes, commercial trucks will take to the air and proceed to break down the sky.

CAPITALISTIC LABOR

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers has just erected an $8,000,000 bank building in Cleveland, where its headquarters are, and now owns three offices and bank buildings in the city worth together $13,000,000. It also owns valuable property in many other cities.

It now operates a dozen banks, strung across the country from Boston to Tacoma, with combined capital of over $4,000,000 and resources of $50,000,000, and has securities corporations connected with its banks with a combined paid-in capital of $17,000,000.

All this has come about within a few years. Here is labor unionism going in for capitalism with a vengeance! It shows what intelligent and thrifty labor can do in the realm of its traditional enemy, when it makes up its mind and sticks to the job.

It also shows that labor and capital are not really enemies, but only business rivals. The more capital succeeds in the capitalistic field, the more capital will respect labor, the more labor will understand capital, and the easier it will be for the two to get along together.

FOOD MORE, CLOTHES LESS

A woman home economics authority who has just devoted a year to the study of American spending statistics reveals many surprising things. One is that the family budget now shows a greater expenditure for food than 10 years ago, but a decreased expenditure for clothing.

Formerly 20 per cent of the family budget was considered a generous allowance for all the food that was wholesome and necessary. The percentage is now somewhere between 27 and 35.

"The family eats about as much in a year as it spends on clothing, automobiles, tobacco, candy, soft drinks and home furnishings combined."

When it comes to clothes the ratio is still more surprising. American women have been considered tremendously extravagant in their wearing apparel. Yet it is found that the family expenditure of the present day allows only $75 a person per year for clothing, or $350 a year per family. Perhaps this is because women especially wear so much less than formerly. Ready-made garments cut to standardized patterns, with a lot of frills and furbelows omitted, reduce this item.

Alma Whittaker, the brilliant editorial writer for the Los Angeles Times, says a woman wrote and asked how she could cure her husband of a "roving eye." She might try giving him a black eye, Alma.

We Need Human Diplomats

San Diego Union.

Great progress has been made, within the last few years, upon the task of building up the American diplomatic service to a reasonable degree of efficiency. Chiefly, the foundations have been laid for an American foreign service directed by experts, commanding the services of experts and transacting international business upon a basis of wide and exact knowledge of affairs. We have begun to train specialists in diplomacy, and we have begun to rule out the job-seeking "lame duck" as the most likely candidate for the choice diplomatic places.

Now that a foundation has been laid, it is reasonable to expect that the reformation of our foreign service will proceed along the lines set forth. There is, however, one area of possible improvement which none of the administrators of the new service have touched.

If the American service is to cope with the problems of this day and age, it will need diplomats who are thoroughly human—diplomats who talk, think and act like human beings. We have some. We need more. There is a dearth of this particular kind of diplomat, here and abroad, and it is precisely this kind of a diplomat that changing world conditions demand. We should try to raise a few.

Whatever may be said of the old diplomacy—the old, wicked, secret diplomacy—the day of the old diplomat is passing. The world is made up of people, and these people are "fed up" on diplomats of the old school. They distrust the old-style diplomat; and if it is the function of the diplomat to carry on international business with the minimum of suspicion and friction, that function cannot be successfully discharged by individuals whom their fellows distrust.

As a study in the generation of distrust, consider the friendly remarks recently made in Chicago by a Japanese diplomat of the old school, Count Michimasa Soyeshima. Among other like remarks, he passed out the observation that the Japanese people had "disarmed in thought" since the Washington conference, and that "although the governments of the two are dissimilar, the ideals of the Japanese and the American people are one."

Is there any human feeling, any common sense, any grasp of the normal psychology of ordinary human beings, displayed in those assertions? There is not. The statements are not only obviously untrue, but they are obviously unreal. They represent the "verbal message" methods of the old-school diplomat, seeking vainly to create good feeling by reading out of the old-school copybooks.

Our love and respect for the Japanese people are not stimulated by such utterances. The very opposite is the case. We suspect a people whose representatives tell such nice lies.

Probably our old-school diplomats are doing the same disservice for us, in the blundering belief that they are making the child-like Japanese, or the innocent Frenchmen or the naive Germans, love us.

Count Soyeshima would do his country a great service, if he could come over and act human in public for a few months or years. For instance, if Count Soyeshima, summoned to attend a disarmament conference in Washington, should "fake" a telegram that his grandmother was dying, and should sneak out to see a ball game—and then allow news of his exploit to become public—he'd do his country a greater service than any number of conferences could. He'd have proved to us that Japanese are human.

Honest Men Too Lenient

E. W. Towne's Monthly.

I'm glad I have always admired Iowa. There have been only two bank robberies in that state in two years, and in both cases the robbers were captured. Iowa men, tired of the numerous bank robberies, organized a vigilance committee of 4,000. As a result robbers now avoid Iowa.

In addition, the laws concerning bank robbers have been stiffened, and are promptly executed. In some other states bank robbery is as common as violations of the prohibitory law. The robbers get off easily by dividing their loot with lawyers.

One noted bank robber in Missouri has been convicted seven or eight times, but his lawyers have always managed to keep him at liberty. Finally he drifted over into Iowa. He was badly wounded and captured in his first job, and will soon be in the penitentiary for a long term. . . . The Iowa plan shows the way to get rid of many other outrages. The way is to resent them. The cowardly, indifferent manner with which the people of the United States submit to outrages is more disgraceful than the outrages themselves. Honest men are too lenient with dishonest men.

YOUR HEALTH

By Dr. Clifford C. Robinson

HANG YOUR LIGHT LIKE THE SUN. Imitate Nature in its hanging of the sun if you would have the best arranged lighting system for your home.

The sun is hung high in the heavens where there is no danger of it shining directly in the eyes. Instead of a tiny intense light near at hand, which always tends to contract the pupil of the eye, and decrease the illumination on the retina, Nature has given us a sun several times larger than the earth so that the light will be diffused, tending to open the retina of the eye and increasing the illumination.

To imitate the sun one is asked to hang the light high above the level of the eyes, and if possible, so to arrange the light that it shines over the left shoulder with reading.

Also use yellow or orange shades. They give less glare than the white ones.

To diffuse the light as much as possible several small lights of low power should be used instead of one big strong light.

When electric lights are used the ground glass bulbs are preferable to the plain glass. They soften the intense glare of the electric filament.

The wrong kind of light will eventually ruin one's eyes. In addition to this danger, eye strain causes headaches and a tired feeling.

The Great Unsolved

Crop Returns and Prosperity

Pasadena Star-News

The greatest returns ever received from the soil will come to California from the proceeds of 1925 crops. This is the assertion of Edward Chambers, of Chicago, vice-president of the Santa Fe railroad. Mr. Chambers has made a tour of the state and has made a personal survey of its agricultural and horticultural productions. Not only is there a tremendous movement to market of fresh fruits and vegetables, but canned products also are in great demand. Exportations of canned fruits and vegetables have reached high figure and yet the canneries scarcely are able to meet the export demand. Mr. Chambers predicts that there will be a big expansion of canneries and an increase in canned products to meet this growing demand.

Quoting Mr. Chambers: "This condition leads me to believe that the wave of prosperity will extend over two or three years, barring unforeseen disaster, and it insures increased production in agricultural and industrial activities, larger movement of freight and passenger traffic, increased farm land sales and subdivision of immense fertile tracts where water can be applied for irrigation." This very optimistic talk comes, remember, not from an over-enthusiastic California booster, but from a man who lives in Chicago—a railroad man of big responsibilities who does not talk loosely. Mr. Chambers' words, frequently corroborated by other railroad men and men of affairs who visit and survey this state, are encouraging and inspiring to Californians. What these men of big vision see is obvious to the observant Californian.

Worth While Verse

THE UPWARD WAY

Struggling on the upward way,
Foot-sore from the travel,
Blinded by the storm-blown spray,
And the stinging gravel;

I would not seek a sheltered nook
Or pray the storm's abating,
But I would sing o'er hill and brook
And smile on friends awaiting.

Nor would I grumble at the climb,
But gaily through each upward mile
I'd pray for courage more sublime
To smile hardest when it's hard to smile.

Be it fear, or foes, or loss, or pain,
I'd meet it with squared shoulder
And travel on through drenching rain,
Though storms brought sleet or colder.

And oft I'd stop to lend a hand
Or point the way to something better,
The sunlight on some distant land
Where travel knows no fetter.

Each comrade on the upward way
Would then take heart to laugh the while;
We'd journey toward the better day,
Smiling hardest when it's hard to smile.

The monthly meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange county was held at Sunset Beach yesterday. The delegates discussed a plan to mark the new county highway with appropriate stone monuments.

Wilbur Palmer, Newport Beach, who was seriously injured near Santa Monica, Saturday, in an auto accident still was unconscious today and fears were felt for his recovery.

More than 100 pounds of dried apricots were stolen from A. Schildmeyer's camp on Grand avenue last night.

Mrs. Sam Preble entertained members of the Shirlwaite club. Dr. J. P. Boyd's new automobile was badly damaged when hit by a train at the Washington station late yesterday. Dr. Boyd was able to get out of the machine before the crash.

On The Side Lines

A Record of Individual and Independent Opinion.

(Which may or may not be in harmony with the views of the Register.)

ROLLS ASKS SOME QUESTIONS—See the man, the good lady, and the child, in the automobile which the man drives at top speed! Has the man, the good lady or the child done wrong, and are those crowds, which follow, officers of the law?

No, neither the man, the lady or the child has done wrong, nor are those who follow, officers of the law.

Why, then, does the man seem so dreadfully worried, and the lady and child appear badly frightened?

Because the three of them realize that during every moment of a large portion of the day, during the time consumed on the going and returning trips, they are in imminent danger of death or injury by accident.

Then I presume the crowds who follow the man are friends and relatives who know the danger of the man, his wife and child and wish to come to their assistance.

Nothing of the kind; the people who follow, for the most part, know nothing of the man, his wife, or child, and as they themselves are confronted with the same liability to death, or injury, by accident, they are thinking of their own troubles.

What, then, are the troubles of the man, his wife and child, and of the very many people who pursue them, and what are they all doing?

All are afflicted with that dreadful ailment "Holdatis Americanus", and all are going somewhere, anywhere, mountain, beach, or roadhouse, by the way; it matters not, so long as they can go at top speed and the crowd follows. Those who are not killed or injured today will do it all over again next Sunday or on the first holiday.

Do they enjoy themselves and are they happy?

They are thoroughly happy, and enjoy themselves in the style and manner peculiar to the American people in this, the 20th century.

WHY NOT, INDEED?—Liable to be misunderstood is the advertisement of an automobile painter, of Anaheim, who uses the columns of the Gazette, of that city, to say: "Why go elsewhere and be cheated? Why not step in here?"

PAY CASH AND AVOID TROUBLE—"The earth setting" is given by scientists as the cause of the many recent earthquake shocks.

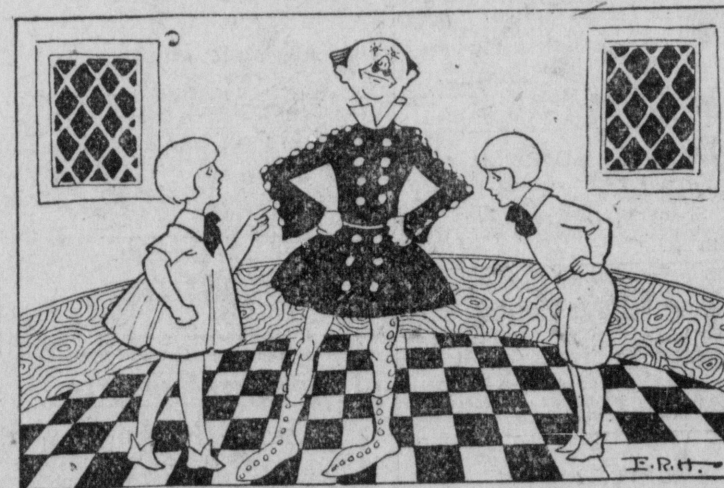

If setting is going to be accompanied by such unpleasant, not to say dangerous manifestations, it is high time that the "cash and carry" system was adopted everywhere.

BOY SCOUTS BEHAVE—This column never intends to miss an opportunity to say a good word for the Boy Scout movement.

Not so in Orange county, for the officials of this county believe that law observance should be demanded of all, and that everybody should be treated alike in the matter of enforcement of the law.

"Come here, Juggle Jump," said the Fairy Queen to the queer person who had just appeared in the dining room door.

Juggle Jump came over to the table and stood stiffly. "I want to introduce you to some friends of mine," said the queen. "These are Nancy and Nick, the Twins. Nancy and Nick, this is Juggle Jump, my general factum."

"Please to meet you," said Juggle Jump stiffly.

"And we are pleased to meet you," said the Twins rising, as they should before their elders. Nancy made a courtesy and Nick made a bow and Juggle Jump nodded.

"Would you mind telling me why you need so many buttons?" asked Nancy. "Is it because you are afraid of sneezing them off, or getting too fat, or something?"

"No, nothing like that," said Juggle Jump. "You will see printing on them. Each button has a use."

"May we look?" "Certainly," said her Royal Highness. "You will have to know sooner or later anyway, because I am going to have Juggle Jump go with you on your next adventure."

The Twins stepped up close and looked at Juggle Jump's buttons.

One button said, "tall," one said "short," one said "fat," one said "thin," and said "very big," another "very small," and so on down. One said "invisible," one said "fast," "slow," and others said things just as unusual.

"What do they all mean?" cried Nick in wonder.

NOTHING TO BE WONDERED AT—Man in Los Angeles lost $1900 in $100 bills, stolen from his safe deposit box—an ordinary tobacco can in his home. Now, just what might be expected to happen to the savings of a man who would entrust them to a tobacco can?

BUY THEM IN MAINE AND GET 'EM CHEAP—During his travels back at the old home in Maine, Editor E. P. Clarke, of the Riverside Press, found Valencia oranges which were selling at retail for 29 cents per dozen. And that's one thing that the Press editor could not find at home.

WOULD NOT BE MISSED—One notes that the name of Santa Barbara's chief of police is Degrandcamp. Had the earthquake shaken two or three syllables off his name he could have spared 'em.

ORANGE COUNTY OFFICIALS AND LAW ENFORCEMENT

—According to a Los Angeles peace officer the policy of officials of Los Angeles county toward country clubs known to be defying the prohibition law is that the law defying clubs shall be regarded as "a party of gentlemen who are interfering with no one."

Not so in Orange county, for the officials of this county believe that law observance should be demanded of all, and that everybody should be treated alike in the matter of enforcement of the law.
